REDS HOPE TO LAUNCH SPACEWOMAN ANY DAY

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union plans to launch a wo..an into space, possibly this week, Communist sources said today.

Communist correspondents say the world's first prospective spacewoman has been selected. She is said to be fairly good looking, in her early 20s, single, and in exceptional physical condition.

According to one unconfirmed report, she is a close friend of Andrian Nikolayev, who orbited the earth 64 times last summer.

GORDON DROPS HINT

No Tax Boost For Little Man?

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A hint that there will be no increase in income taxes for the small wage earner in the budget, was dropped in the Commons Tuesday by Finance Minister Walter Gordon.

Contents of the budget—particularly tax changes—are kept a closely guarded secret by the government.

Consequently it was surprising that the finance minister let drop his veiled hint that the little man will not face increased income taxes. The budget will be brought down Thursday night.

The hint came during an exchange between the minister and Raymond Langlois (SC—Megantic) in the course of the question period. Basing his question on an article in the Toronto Globe and Mail Mr. Langlois said it dealt with a statement made by the minister. It read:

"If we make taxes too burdensom on the very wealthy in an attempt to get more out of them, they may go away and take their wealth with them."

Mr. Langlois asked if that meant that "the minister intends to increase the taxes on small wage earners so as to compensate for those he will not tax proportionately to their revenue, in order to maintain a balanced budget?"

Mr. Gordon pondered the question for a few minutes then selecting his words carefully he replied: "I think if the member waits until Thursday he will be reassured."

Meantime, the finance minister's white paper tabled in parliament was being cited today as reinforcing the expectation that the budget will contain new measures to discourage the inflow of foreign capital.

Negroes Given Friendly Hand

By RELMAN MORIN

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Two Negroes — the first of their race to attend the school—went to their first classes at the University of Alabama today and white students extended friendly hands in an atmosphere of tranquility.

Three white girls walked with Miss Vivian J. Malone, one of the Negroes, as she went from her dormitory to a classroom building. They chatted as they strolled.

A white youth called James A. Hood, the other Negro, "Jimmy" in advising him that he had taken the wrong turn along the tree-lined campus at one point.

Across from Comer Hall, where Miss Malone went to study business administration, a national guardsman in green fatigue uniform stood. Nearby were three federal marshals.

The marshals had followed the 20-year-old Negro girl discreetly in a car as she walked from her dormitory a quarter-mile away.

NO CROWDS GATHER

There were no crowds and no incidents. White students at the university seemed to take the situation in stride.

Both Negroes left their respective dormitories shortly before 10 a.m.

Hood, 20, walked from his dormitory to the cafeteria and found it almost full. He went to a table and had breakfast alone.

One guardsman also was in the cafeteria, but it did not appear that Hood had other protection.

Hood, whose major will be psychology, then walked to Woods Hall for his first class in political science.

A federal marshal who asked not to be identified said Hood went to a motion picture in the dormitory recreation room Tuesday night. The marshal said Hood sat with white students.

TALKED FREELY

"They talked freely," the officer said. "There was no animosity."

A third Negro student, Dave McGlathery, plans to enrol Thursday at the university's Huntsville Centre, 150 miles northeast of Tuscaloosa. Governor George C. Wallace declined to say Tuesday night whether he will stand in the doorway there as he did futilely here Tuesday.

Miss Malone and Hood spent the night in dormitories guarded by federal marshals.

Strike Threat Eased

By AB KENT

Threat of a longshoremen's strike hanging over the B.C. shipping industry eased today with the feeling that negotiations between shippers and union would resume Monday.

A shipping spokesman said there is general talk that dock workers and shippers would get together Monday morning to forestall a waterfront tieup in Vancouver Island and mainland ports.

VOTING STARTS

Meanwhile, some 2,000 members of 12 B.C. locals of International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union began voting today to authorize strike action against B.C. Shipping Federation.

Results were not expected before Friday at the earliest.

Union and federation have been in dispute for more than a year, essentially over jurisdiction and protection against automation in cargo handling. The union considers wage increases of lesser importance.

It is estimated a longshoremen's strike would cost the west coast economy $2¾ million a day directly, and increasingly more as repercussions are felt in primary and secondary export industries.

CHINA ORDERS

In addition there would be grain shipments lost, including the important large orders by China. A 15,000-ton wheat cargo is scheduled for China Saturday.

"A strike would put us in awful shape," said W. Stan Moore, managing director of Western Lumber Carriers Ltd.

"Provided we were not picketted, we would stockpile all we could at Ogden Point, but it would not be long before the yard would be plugged. We would pile around our mill

. . . premonition of death?

Mac Wins Cabinet Support

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan held an emergency cabinet meeting today and was reported to have persuaded his ministers to back his handling of the Profumo vice scandal.

None of the ministers would speak publicly about the dramatic cabinet meeting and in fact none of them looked happy about it. But the informed Press Association said it was evident that the meeting "was a harmonious one and that there may well be a unanimity of view."

These facts leaked out:

The cabinet received the report of an inquiry into whether resigned war minister John Profumo violated security in his relations with model Christine Keeler who was having an affair at the same time with a Soviet navy captain, Yevgeni Ivanov.

Strategy was planned for next Monday's parliamentary session when the Labor opposition is certain to attack the government on its handling of the entire scandal.

Shot in Back Outside Home

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Medgar W. Evers, a prominent southern Negro leader, was fatally shot in the back in the driveway of his home here early today.

The 37-year-old Evers, who had been directing a massive civil disobedience campaign against racial discrimination in the Mississippi capital city, died 15 minutes later in University Medical Centre.

Evers was shot as he stepped out of his car after returning home from an integration rally.

The bullet struck Evers in the right side of his back, passed through his body, and smashed through a glass-pannelled door in his house. The bullet was found on the floor of the kitchen.

Evers staggered to the kitchen door and collapsed. His wife hurried to the carport and became hysterical when she saw him.

INVITE FBI HELP

Two other neighbors, Willie C. Quinn and Houston Wells, called police. Then they put Evers in his own station wagon and took him to hospital escorted by police.

Evers, a native of Decatur, Miss., had been Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for the last nine years.

M. B. Pierce, Jackson chief of detectives, called the slaying "most unfortunate."

"We had men detailed to all their meetings trying to prevent any violence whatever. We will do everything possible to apprehend the guilty party or parties."

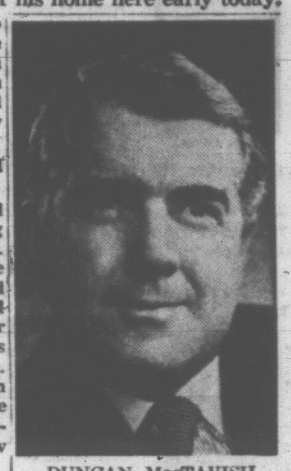

Pierce invited agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assist with the investigation.

Police announced the murder rifle has been found in bushes near the scene.

He issued a statement saying: "The assassination of Medgar N. Evers demonstrates anew the blind and murderous hatred

Two Named To Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment to the Senate of Duncan K. MacTavish of Ottawa, a former president of the National Liberal Federation, and Montreal businessman Louis P. Gelinas was announced today by Prime Minister Pearson. Both are 64.

Mr. MacTavish was head of the National Liberal Federation for six years until he retired from the post in the fall of 1958 after suffering a heart attack earlier that year.

Mr. Gelinas, an investment dealer, served in the RCMP during the Second World War.

The appointments brought Liberal membership in the Senate to 61. There are 37 Conservatives, two independents, one Independent Liberal and one vacancy, a Quebec seat.

Smoking Health Hazard Prompts Ottawa Study

By ALEX YOUNG

(See story Page 2)

OTTAWA — Under pressure from the public and the medical profession, the federal government is moving to assess its role in the controversy over the health perils of smoking.

Just what action Ottawa might take in an effort to mitigate the apparent health hazard won't be known until the health and welfare department confers with "interested groups" on the question.

Government concern, however, has been clearly expressed by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, who smokes cigarettes herself but who also says she has been "frankly stunned by the rise of public concern" over smoking.

In addition to being faced with a bombardment of questions from Members of Parliament about what the government intends to do, Miss LaMarsh also has been receiving a deluge of letters from citizens who are just as interested in the government's plans.

Most telling pressure, government spokesmen are quick to admit, has come from the Canadian Medical Association. In a study of the relationship between smoking and disease, the CMA found not only a cancer link but a link between heavy smoking and other chronic ailments of the respiratory-circulatory system.

Immediate plans of the federal government are to consult with the interested groups mentioned by Miss Lamarsh in recent comment on the problem.

MANY GROUPS

Such a conference, it is learned, would include representatives of the CMA, Cancer Society, the tobacco industry and growers, educators, and federal and provincial medical experts.

One of the first programs to develop from the conference, it is understood, would be a program to educate the nation's youth on the smoking health problem.

Another move considered by Ottawa is enforcement of the Tobacco Restraint Act. This act has been in existence since 1908 but has been rarely enforced.

It provides a fine of up to $100 for anyone furnishing smoking material to children under 16; it provides a fine of up to $4 for children caught smoking; and it provides maximum fine of $25 for anyone in charge of a cigarette vending machine who permits children under 16 to use it. If vending machine operators continue to permit use by children the machines can be ordered removed.

MINISTER TO DISCUSS TOBACCO ADS

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, will meet Health Minister Judy La Marsh shortly to discuss cigarette smoking and lung cancer in relation to radio and television advertising.

BBG Vice-Chairman Carlyle Allison said today the BBG has received representations from the Saskatchewan cancer commission expressing concern at the effect of cigarette advertising on television on young persons. The commission, a branch of the Saskatchewan public health department, suggested that a similar cigarette advertising policy be adopted as for liquor ads.

CONVICTS WOULD CALL PRISON COMMISSIONER

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Three convicts facing three charges in an April 19 prison riot have asked to have Canada's commissioner of penitentiaries take the stand as a defence witness.

The three, Nelson Bernard Wood, 27; Gerard Caissey, 28, and Wayne Carlson, 21, are charged with attempting to break out of the B.C. Penitentiary, unlawfully confining prison guard Pat Dennis and assaulting the guard.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy appealed in a broadcast speech for an end to discrimination against Negroes.

He did five things in his talk Tuesday night:

1. He blamed all 50 states, not just the south where racial prejudice is most intense, for discrimination.

2. He made equal treatment for Negroes an urgent necessity by noting that violence and lives are threatened.

3. He asked all white Americans to examine their conscience and co-operate in ending discrimination.

4. By the broadcast he put the full weight of his office behind his plea to give Negroes the constitutional rights denied them.

5. He outlined steps he wants Congress to take in this direction by passing laws to overcome segregation.

URGED TO SPEAK

That he make such a talk had been urged on Kennedy from various quarters for weeks as racial tensions increased and, in some places, burst into riots.

The indications were that he would not.

He finally did it a few hours after compelling the admittance of two Negroes to the University of Alabama over the completely empty resistance of Governor George C. Wallace.

If Kennedy had made the same kind of talk earlier in his administration some, if not most, of the present tensions might have been avoided although perhaps not unless he had followed the talk with action.

By the same token race relations in the United States now might have been far more advanced if President Eisenhower had made a similar plea just once in his eight years in office.

It is clear Kennedy felt compelled to talk now not because racial discrimination is any worse but because of the crisis he mentioned.

This is because Negroes, realizing they can accomplish far more by collective action than alone, have begun to batter against racial barriers in demonstrations which, if frustrated, could become riots.

MAKES TWO POINTS

Kennedy made two points on the legislation he will lay before Congress:

He wants a law giving Negroes the right to be served in public facilities, like hotels and restaurants. This seems to mean a law forbidding proprietors of such facilities, if they are involved in interstate commerce at all, to decide on their own to refuse to serve Negroes.

He wants a law from Congress to authorize the federal federal government to step in more fully in lawsuits to end segregation in public education. As of now, a Negro denied admittance to a segregated school in almost all areas must file his own suit. Few Negroes can afford such expense.

Some Negro leaders feel, however, that unless Congress passes a law permitting the government to file a suit in any case where a Negro's civil rights are denied—not just in selected fields—all other measures are insufficient.

GLASSCO REPORT SUMMARY SAYS BASIC ORGANIZATION GOOD

'Delegate Authority for Streamlined Government'

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Greater delegation of authority is the key to more efficient operation of the gigantic federal government apparatus, the Glassco royal commission stressed in its fifth and final report today.

In a 3,600-word summary of its study into government organization, the three-man commission said the federal machine is a good one that needs only oiling to free its creaking joints of clogging red tape and give its operating segments a greater degree of freedom.

The report, tabled in the Commons, outlines the commissioners' general philosophy of good government operation set against the background of our previous reports. Unlike the previous ones, which ran a total of 800,000 words, its proposals are general, not specific, relating to the government as a whole, rather than to individual situations.

Heavy emphasis is laid on present lines of authority, beginning with the cabinet ministers, of whom it says:

"As long ago as 1912 an outside expert, Sir George Murray, reported to the cabinet that 'the minister has too much to do and tries to do too much.' Fifty years later, this state of affairs is little changed, with the result that the public is often exasperated in dealing with public servants lacking power of decision even in commonplace situations."

From this premise, the report goes on to argue that cabinet ministers should delegate more authority to lower echelons of their departments to increase efficiency and give themselves more opportunity to deal with leadership, policy matters and long-term objectives.

As an example, it cites the transport department where spending has trebled in 10 years with the enormous growth of civil aviation and marine services. Pressing problems of transport policy matters made it imperative to free the minister and his deputy of ever-increasing involvement in operations.

At the same time, the commission sets out new management methods aimed at developing effective systems of internal review, of reports and of preparing accurate cost information. It says these will give the cabinet minister and his senior aides adequate control of operations.

"One further condition must be recognized," it goes on. "Where there is devolution of operating authority and responsibility there must be the means, and the willingness, to reward good performance and to penalize inadequacy.

"This will, of course, require safeguards against arbitrari-

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Last week a pair of baby swans—excuse it, I mean cygnets—appeared in the lake near the Burns statue. One of the little ones—cyngets, that is—disappeared soon after, victim of one of nature's many hazards.

This week another pair of swans, whose home is in Goodacre Lake, produced no less than five blessed events—pardon me, cygnets.

So far, they are healthy, and determined to prove you can't keep good swans down.

Oh, and you, too, have been wondering why swan offspring are called cygnets?

Elementary, my dear Watson, when you consider that swan is simply the name given to the birds forming the subfamily Cygninae of the Anatidae; that the Latin name for swan is cygnus; and that the diminutive of cygnus is cygnet.

Don't say we don't keep you informed.

For seven years Thomas Winter, 2936 Wascana, has been using a sewer that existed only on paper.

When the weather turned hot this April, he found that a paper sewer just wasn't good enough.

He dug down into his garden only to find that the house which he had been living in since August, 1956, was not connected to the municipal sewer line.

But according to records in Saanich Municipal Hall, a connection had been laid in July, 1956, when the house belonged to an Arthur W. S. Harris. It was apparently inspected on July 12 of that year.

In spite of the file in the Municipal Hall, the plumber doesn't remember ever having done the job, and officials have been unable to trace Mr. Harris.

Tuesday night Saanich public works committee agreed that the municipality should provide the pipe if Mr. Winter provided the labor to set things right.

"After all," Coun. Leslie Passmore said, "some of our employees have slipped up somewhere. There's no doubt of that."

'TORIES OBSTRUCTING' PICKERSGILL CHARGES

OTTAWA—Liberal house leader J. W. Pickersgill today angrily accused the Progressive Conservative opposition of obstructing the Liberal legislative program in the Commons.

He said in an interview he believed the opposition, with its "interminable" questioning and speechmaking was attempting to prevent the government from passing one bill by June 20.

June 20 is the 60th day in the life of the Liberal administration—the end of the "60 days of decision" in which the Liberals promised more action than in any like period by any previous government.

"The kind of decision we were talking about," State Secretary Pickersgill said, "was our decision—not theirs."

Justice Upholds Coroner's Stand

Times News Services

MONTREAL — Mr. Justice Andre Sabourin today rejected a move to halt an inquest into the death of an army night watchman killed by a terrorist bomb April 20.

He turned down a petition for a writ that would prevent further sessions of the inquest.

The petition was filed in Quebec Superior Court by nine lawyers on behalf of one of 15 persons held as material witnesses for the inquest.

Dollard Dansereau, one of the lawyers for the witnesses, said the nine lawyers will meet immediately to consider what possible action they can take.

Mr. Justice Sabourin, who interrupted hearing of a rape trial to deal with the application, picked six specific points out of 33 allegations which he said he considered to be the most important claims for a writ of prohibition.

Sabourin backed up Coroner Marcel Trahan's conduct of the case on all points raised by the defence lawyers.

The defence move delayed the hearing as Trahan prepared to take the inquiry into its third and possibly final day.

At the core of the defence complaint was the fact that Trahan Tuesday cut off arguments by the nine attorneys, who promptly walked out and prepared the writ.

As the hearing reconvened, two of the accused found in contempt Tuesday were called in and formally sentenced to a month's jail term each. They are Gabriel Hudon and Jacques Giroux, both cited for refusing to answer prosecution questions.

which obsesses too many Mississippians.

"In their ignorance they believe that by killing a brave, dedicated and resourceful leader of the civil rights struggle they can kill the movement for human rights. They cannot. . . ."

Wilkins announced that the NAACP is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the killer.

HAD BEEN ARRESTED

Wilkins and Evers, along with Jackson Negro housewife Mrs. Helen Wichler, had been arrested June 1 for picketing stores on Jackson's Capitol Street—the city's main downtown thoroughfare.

All three were charged with conspiring to restrain trade, a felony.

Evers had directed the anti-segregation campaign which led to more than 600 arrests in the past two weeks.

A muscular six-footer, Evers may have had a premonition of his death. In a recent interview, he discussed threats on his life and said:

"If I die, it will be in a good cause. I've been fighting for America just as much as the soldiers in Viet Nam."

"I do not believe in violence either by whites or Negroes. That is why I am working tirelessly with the NAACP in a peaceful legal struggle for justice," he said.

"I'm a native of Mississippi. I don't ever intend to live elsewhere. But I'm determined we can gain some equality and be accepted as human beings with dignity."

Police said the weapon was apparently a high - powered .30-30 rifle, a weapon commonly used for deer hunting in this area. They said they believed the assassin fired from a vacant lot about 150 feet from Evers's home — across a triangular shaped vacant lot where two streets converge.

Wells, a Negro furniture dealer who lives next door to Evers, said he didn't see or hear a car immediately afterwards.

"That's what upset me," said Wells. "I had my gun in my hand and I fired in the air."

POOL OF BLOOD

He said he found Evers lying face down in a pool of blood.

"He tried to speak but could not to the extent that he could be understood," Wells said.

Later, Willie Mae Bishop, a white teen-ager who lives near the spot where officers believe the shot was fired, told reporters she saw three men running away from the scene.

In Cambridge, Md., Tuesday night, two white men were shot and at least four other persons injured in a race riot. The violence flared when 100 whites followed an equal number of Negro integration demonstrators back in the Negro section. State police rushed in to quell the fighting.

WHITES DISPERSED

In Danville, Va., state troopers moved in Tuesday night and dispersed 150 whites from a downtown intersection following a peaceful demonstration by shouting, singing Negroes who marched through the streets during daylight hours.

Savannah, Ga., police arrested 49 adults and an unannounced number of juveniles—most for violating anti-trespass laws—in that city's biggest anti-segregation demonstration so far. An estimated 1,000 demonstrators gathered at the main Savannah business intersection.

In St. Louis, about 55 pickets, protesting what they called re-segregation of some city schools paraded outside the board of education offices.

ness and injustice; but such safeguards can be provided without denying departmental heads the right to manage."

Head of the commission is J. Grant Glassco, 58, Toronto accountant and executive. Serving with him are Eugene Therrien, 56, Montreal lawyer and insurance company executive, and Watson Sellar, 68, of Ottawa, retired auditor-general of Canada.

TWO YEARS ON JOB

During its two years of research the commission dug into every nook and cranny of the huge federal organization, enlisting 197 specialists who put in 22,437 man-days compiling research material and preliminary reports. Then the three commissioners settled down to write their final conclusions in a series of reports which began last September.

The investigation cost $2,628,969. But the commission has estimated that its recommendations on paper work alone would save $50,000,000 a year if carried out fully.

Some earlier reports were criticized for appearing to prefer the operational methods of modern industry to those found in government. The final report says frankly that "the businessman possesses no magic formula to solve all the organizational problems of government."

But it adds that in the vital field of cost information private industry is miles ahead and government should hurry and catch up. Accurate cost information is "too often inadequately based, carelessly prepared, inexcusably late, and . . . put to no useful purpose."

Where the federal government carries out activities duplicated by private industry there is "ample evidence" that the private sector had evolved more efficient systems. Many goods and services now provided by government agencies could be purchased more cheaply from private business.

URGE CO-OPERATION

Another field for economy was in co-ordination of operations. The commission recalled briefly its earlier recommendations in this line, such as placing property management, construction and purchasing under single agencies serving all federal departments.

The report also laid fresh stress on its previous proposals for abandoning "the existing regime of financial, personnel and general administrative controls which disperse authority and confuse responsibility".

This was a reference to plans for giving each department power to do its own hiring and much of its own spending without the rigid control of the Civil Service Commisison and the financial watchdogs of the treasury board.

yards, then, but we need money, too."

Mr. Moore explained that payment is made as soon as the lumber is loaded aboard ship.

"So it would snarl the whole export lumber business," he said.

Victoria mills produce nearly 1,000,000 board feet of lumber daily, and with Cowichan area lumber this accounts for $10,500,000 a month in export material.

The island ports of Chemainus and Port Alberni each account for 15,000,000 board feet a month, and Nanaimo ships about the same as Victoria—10,000,000 feet.

$1,200 DAILY

Ships waiting in port for cargoes would cost their operators about $1,200 a day while idle. Railways would be forced to put embargoes on to keep freight cars from piling up at the end of steel in Vancouver.

Capt. George McKee, general manager of the shipper's federation, said he did not think the union would strike, preferring to bargain from a position of strength with strike authority in hand.

PORT ALBERNI — A search of the Alberni Canal for Gerry Burkeholder, 18, and Ruby Johnson, 16, missing since Sunday, was halted Tuesday when the two were reported seen in Port Alberni.

Doctors Urge Campaign On Cigarette Smoking

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP)—The health of Canadians is imperilled by too many cigarettes, too much enriched food and possibly by the careless use of drugs, says the Canadian Medical Association.

The CMA decided Tuesday the time is ripe to launch a high-powered campaign warning the public against the danger of cigarettes causing lung cancer.

Official representatives of 16,500 Canadian doctors at the same time said obesity is a major health problem in Canada and added common overdosing with vitimins is unnecessary, if not harmful to health.

In panel talks at the CMA annual meeting, doctors warned that careless use of a proliferating variety of drugs is potentially dangerous, as discovered last year in the case of the tranquillizer thalidomide.

The CMA general council approved a plan of attack designed to curb lung cancer through federal, provincial and municipal governments, schools, advertisers and by example and persuasion on the personal level.

Among suggestions to be put to the federal government is one asking consideration of legislation requiring cigarette packages to be labelled dangerous to health, and another requesting enforcement of the law to prevent children under 16 from buying cigarettes.

The CMA will ask health minister Judy La Marsh to issue a declaration saying lung cancer is a major health problem and that there is a definite relationship between the disease and smoking cigarettes.

The meeting approved proposals for a vigorous campaign to teach the public that both being overweight and making sporadic attempts at losing weight can be hazardous. Foods souped up with added vitamins and the dosing of children with vitamin tonics often is unnecessary and may be dangerous.

The average Canadian gets an excess of 20 per cent in calories, 90 per cent in protein and 150 per cent in thiamine, a vitamin added to bread and cereal.

Winnipeg doctor C. H. A. Walton told a panel that ordinary headache tablets can cause painful reactions in a small percentage of the millions who take them. A study of 6,000 patients with asthma showed 180 of them were allergics sensitive to acetylsalicylic acid, the main constituent of headache pills.

Elsewhere on the agenda Tuesday, the doctors:

Heard an announcement that H3, a drug claimed by a Romanian doctor to be helpful in treating degenerative deseases of aging, will receive a major test of tis effectiveness in Toronto.

Indian Bands Voting On Liquor

Three Island Indian bands are voting in liquor plebiscites to make it official that they can drink in their reserve homes.

It's been done anyway, since Attorney-General Robert Bonner last year issued instructions which in effect turned a blind eye to liquor laws which he said had become impossible to enforce.

Esquimalt voted yes Monday, Sooke will vote June 17 and East Saanich has not yet set a date.

Mr. Bonner has long pressed for a change, because, he says, there are more reserves than bands in B.C. The bands are widely scattered across the province, and one reserve often includes members of many bands.

This made it impossible to determine which Indians were allowed to drink.

Residents Oppose Reopening Of Poultry Plant

DUNCAN—A petition, strongly opposing the reopening of a poultry processing plant in the Queen's Road area, was submitted to city council Monday.

Residents in the district claimed the plant would be a nuisance and suggested the plant be established outside the city.

'Bureaucratismo', Black Market Cuba Headaches

Major Drive To End Chaos

The black market and bureaucracy are two major problems facing the Cuban government. Canadian Press reporter Jack Best tells in this story of some success in fighting bureaucracy and failure to stamp out the black market.

By JACK BEST

Armed Militiawomen Parade in Havana

HAVANA (CP) — In the fifth year of the Cuban revolution two durable and pesky problems are still around to interfere with progress and cause official headaches.

One of them is bureaucratic muddle. An all-out attempt is being made to liquidate it. At least superficially, the campaign appears to have achieved some worthwhile results.

The other is the black market. It seems to be flourishing as never before, an outgrowth of the great number of commodity shortages.

The campaign to eliminate bureaucratic muddle is important enough to have been assigned its own set of slogans for example, "bureaucratismo no bureaucracy no. You see it written even on match boxes.

The aim is to banish once and for all the chaos created in both government and industry by the upheavals of the early years of the revolution.

Evidence that the drive is having an effect is seen in the fact that bank branches are no longer the scene of such utter confusion as that which followed the nationalization decrees of 1960.

Lineups Shorter

True, it still takes up to half an hour to get a traveller's cheque cashed, what with all the forms that have to be filled out. But the lineups for everyday banking transactions are much shorter and seem to move faster.

Immigration, customs and money-changing formalities at Havana's Jose Marti airport can be negotiated in about half an hour, far less than they once took.

Perhaps more striking is that outbound planes leave almost on schedule. At one time a person could count on his flight being delayed up to six hours. The improvement appears to be part of the new look in government operations generally, though independent observers say it also may have something to do with a reported Mexican ultimatum to the government-owned Cubana Airlines to get its planes in to and out of Mexico City on schedule.

Since commercial flights to Miami were suspended last October, Mexico has been the sole Western Hemisphere gateway to Cuba. There still are non-scheduled cargo flights from some countries, including Canada, and scheduled flights to Spain, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union.

Despite some apparent improvements, today's traveller to Cuba still gets snarled in a formidable mass of red tape. At the airport he is relieved of his passport and told he can retrieve it next morning at the interior ministry in Havana.

Presumably authorities need it for some kind of security check.

Need Exit Permit

When the traveller turns up at the ministry—a scene of intense, apparently well-organized paper work handled by platoons of women clad in the olive green shirts and khaki trousers of the militia—he may or may not get his passport back.

He may have to return for it later in the day, or some other day.

Four or five days before leaving Cuba, he applies at the same office for an exit permit, returning to pick it up when it's ready about two days later.

The day before his flight he is required to report to the Cubana office for a "pre-flight check," designed to see that his ticket and documents are in order. On departure day he has to be at the airport two hours before scheduled flight time.

"On a short trip," said one visitor, "a person spends more time tending to formalities than he does in seeing the place."

All in all, however, there is every evidence of greater sophistication in the administration of public affairs. Government has more trappings of a going concern, less the flavor of a complex mechanism being run by clumsy, inexperienced hands.

Being Eased Out

It is said that many of the ardent young revolutionaries placed in high administrative positions two or three years ago are now being eased out in favor of people who know something about how the offices and industries concerned should be run.

Much of the managerial class has left the country. But there are said to be many persons left who occupied lower-echelon but still highly responsible administrative positions before the new order took over. Attempts are being made to get these men into jobs lately being held by well-meaning young Castro followers generally blamed for having made a mess of things.

Typical of the adminstrative incompetence, responsible informants say, was the affair of the Czech buses. A fleet of them was brought in to replace worn-out American buses. But nobody bothered to order a supply of spare parts.

When mechanical difficulties developed there were no parts with which to fix the buses.

Market for $1

Another sign of what may be growing stability in Cuba is the "public order" police, now a part of the Havana scene. They perform the same tasks as the ordinary city police force in Canada: traffic control and day-to-day maintenance of law and order. Formerly, such responsibilities seemed to be lumped together in a vague way under the armed forces and the G-2 military police.

Stringent laws against currency speculation—including threatened use of the death penalty—have failed to wipe out the black market in U.S dollars.

Officially the government keeps the peso pegged at par with the dollar. On the black market, however, a dollar will fetch seven pesos, more in keeping with the international exchange position of the two currencies.

Even old pesos—rendered worthless under the present administration by a money changeover two years ago—are said to be negotiable on the black market at 30 pesos to the dollar. Speculators presumably are gambling that if and when the Castro regime is overthrown, its successor will make some gesture toward redeeming the old pre-revolutionary money.

Manipulation

Apart altogether from the black market, there is a widespread transfer type of money manipulation. Almost every Cuban has a friend or relative in the United States. Visitors to Cuba frequently are approached with the offer of upwards of four pesos to every dollar he agrees to deposit in the account of the relative or friend "on the other side."

The peddler of such a proposal will argue that the exchange is mutually beneficial—the visitor gets several times as many pesos to spend in Cuba as he otherwise would; the Cuban is able to make use of the excess pesos that he couldn't otherwise use because there is so little to buy.

Authorities attempt to combat this practice by requiring visitors to declare all their dollars on arrival and thereafter to change them for pesos only at the government-owend national bank. All exchanges are entered on a yellow slip of paper which he must surrender on leaving Cuba. They have established $10 a day as the rule-of-thumb minimum cost of living for a foreigner here for a visit.

Many informed observers insist the government openly tolerates the widespread black market in foodstuffs simply to give farmers an incentive to produce more than for their own individual needs and thereby help relieve the food shortage.

$4 for Steak

With distribution and prices strictly controlled, the explanation goes, farmers feel little inclined to grow food for the towns and cities.

A system of rationing was instituted in 1961 to ensure that everyone got his fair share of available food at reasonable prices. To the extent that it still is possible for better-off Cubans to get preferred treatment, through the black market, the ration system would appear to have failed to achieve its objective.

Still, thanks to the revolution, ordinary working-class Cubans are doing things and enjoying privileges they would never have dreamed of before. You see them frolicking at beaches and swimming pools once the exclusive preserve of the very wealthy.

You see them swaggering through magnificent hotels which, though grown slightly shabby, nevertheless retain much of their former opulence. And they quite evidently relish such unceremonious treading on the ghosts of the past.

Hotels Cheaper

At Varadero, a once-fashionable resort town 100 miles east of Havana, the International Hotel, which catered to tourists at $16 a room and up, now accommodates Cubans at $7.

This is expensive by Havana standards; it is possible to get a good hotel room in the capital for a little as $2 a day.

Fine summer homes have been taken over and turned into boarding houses for vacationers with large families. Rates are $3.50 to $5 a day a person, meals included.

Apartments can be rented for $35 to $55 a month, depending on the number of rooms.

For a long time after such facilities were taken over by the revolution, Cubans seemed timid about making use of them. Now, however, they are well patronized, officials say.

Qualified sources say there is no doubt that purchasing power has been redistributed; more people have money to spend than before. They are not sure, however, that there is any real relationship between the amount of money in circulation and the country's economic position.

Tragedy in Britain

THE CURRENT SCANDAL OF London's high life is being treated throughout the world as a kind of spicy melodrama and watched with a leer. In fact, it is a tragedy for Britain—not because one prominent politician's career has been ruined but because the nation's good name has been traduced.

Already the Macmillan government has often failed to enforce security against spies in its civil service. A series of notorious cases indicates that British intelligence has been repeatedly penetrated by foreign agents. Now, when a prostitute's clients include, at the same time, the minister of war and a Russian official, friendly foreign governments are bound to wonder whether their military secrets are safe in London. They (especially the American government) have good reason for alarm.

While these fears may be exaggerated, they cause quite unnecessary frictions in the free world's alliance at a time of serious disagreement on actual strategy.

That is the first damage which an immoral minister has inflicted on his nation. Secondly, he has damaged and may have ruined a government which was in deep political trouble before this affair burst into the headlines. Mr. Macmillan is condemned by the Labor opposition for either failing to know of his colleague's habits, as he should have known, or of failing to dismiss him long ago. Whatever the truth may be in that respect, the Prime Minister has been betrayed.

But much more disturbing is the revelation that a leading member of the government, and one of the Queen's privy councillors, has lied to the House of Commons. This has seldom happened in the long history of Parliament and tends to undermine confidence in the institution itself.

Thoughtless foreigners may smirk and the gossip writers are feasting on scandal but the British people, perhaps the soundest electorate in the world, know that they have been defamed and humiliated. It is a slander to suggest that one man's behavior is typical of the political system or of the nation's morals but the slander will be widely believed and the Communists, of course, will exploit it everywhere.

The Labor Party sees a chance to defeat the government, either in Parliament or in the next election. It will be irresponsible, however, and unpatriotic, too, if it descends to mere scandal mongering. The opposition is not concerned with the private habits of one man but only with public policy, as Mr. Harold Wilson has wisely said. Friends of Britain abroad will hope that he stands by that resolve and resists the temptation to make a Roman holiday of the nation's misfortune.

Under the best of circumstances that misfortune must raise grave doubts not only about the government but about the British Establishment which has allowed the nation's reputation to be so grossly defamed.

Good Deal on Bastion Square

THE CITY COUNCIL HAS EXEcuted a good stroke of business by acquiring the old courthouse. This, as the mayor has pointed out, can be a major step toward the rehabilitation of that part of the downtown district.

The building itself is good enough for temporary quarters for the civic administration and may, with thought, be converted into a highly useful element in the burgeoning redevelopment plan for the area from the Causeway to Johnson Street.

Property exchanged by the city with the government for the courthouse will also go to planned development within the legislative precinct. The transfers should be valuable to both parties to the trade.

By acquiring the old building Victoria escapes rental payments on other property which it would have had to lease while the City Hall is being reconstructed inside and while the new administrative building in the centennial precinct is being erected. The move will still cost some money, but expenses connected with temporary use of the courthouse can be held down.

The significance of the exchange, however, does not rest on temporary expediency. By the acquisition the city places itself in a position to co-operate on a partnership basis with the province and the federal government in long-term improvements indicated in the proposals drafted by the Capital Region Planning Board for the Capital Improvement District Commission.

This project must inevitably wait upon clarification of changes in the federal government's arrangements for urban renewal financing. Up to the present, federal funds for such work have been tied directly to residential accommodation. Well-informed reports indicate a new policy which would provide such money, at low interest, for other pressing urban renewal work of a type suitable for Bastion Square and adjacent property.

At all events substantial time will be allowed for development studies since the old courthouse will be occupied by the administrative officials and staff of the City Hall for about a year. In that period it should be possible for experts to devise a practical and valuable use for the old cement block building and adjacent city-owned property—a use, incidentally, which should not require a heavy and continuing subsidy from Victoria taxpayers.

Backed By Law and Force

THE CRISIS RAISED BY THE registration of two Negro students at the University of Alabama has fortunately passed without violence. Governor Wallace has made his public stand, he has given way to the superior authority of the United States federal government, and he is now free to continue the battle in the courts where, as President Kennedy says, it belongs.

The presence of many armed police and troops, and previous arrangements to ensure that no mobs should be on the campus, made it possible to conclude this phase of the struggle quietly. Without such precautions—without, indeed, Governor Wallace's efforts to keep crowds away—the prevailing tension could have led to scenes such as disgraced the University of Mississippi in a similar registration episode last year.

The basic problem, of course, is not yet solved. But a long step has been taken towards a peaceful solution. President Kennedy deserves credit for the courage he has shown in demanding adherence to the law of the land. He has demonstrated the authority of the national government and shown that its writ must run in Alabama as elsewhere.

While there may be further protests in store—and campus life may be made difficult for the two Negro students—the two are formally registered and in residence. It could well be that the silent majority of Alabamans—as with other southerners—will be content to accept peacefully what many must see to be inevitable. While strong resistance no doubt still exists, it is the hoodlum element which resorts to beatings in the street that gets the most publicity. With such persons forcefully deterred, the wiser if less vociferous part of the population may let events follow in the democratic way.

What's a Sheepskin Worth?

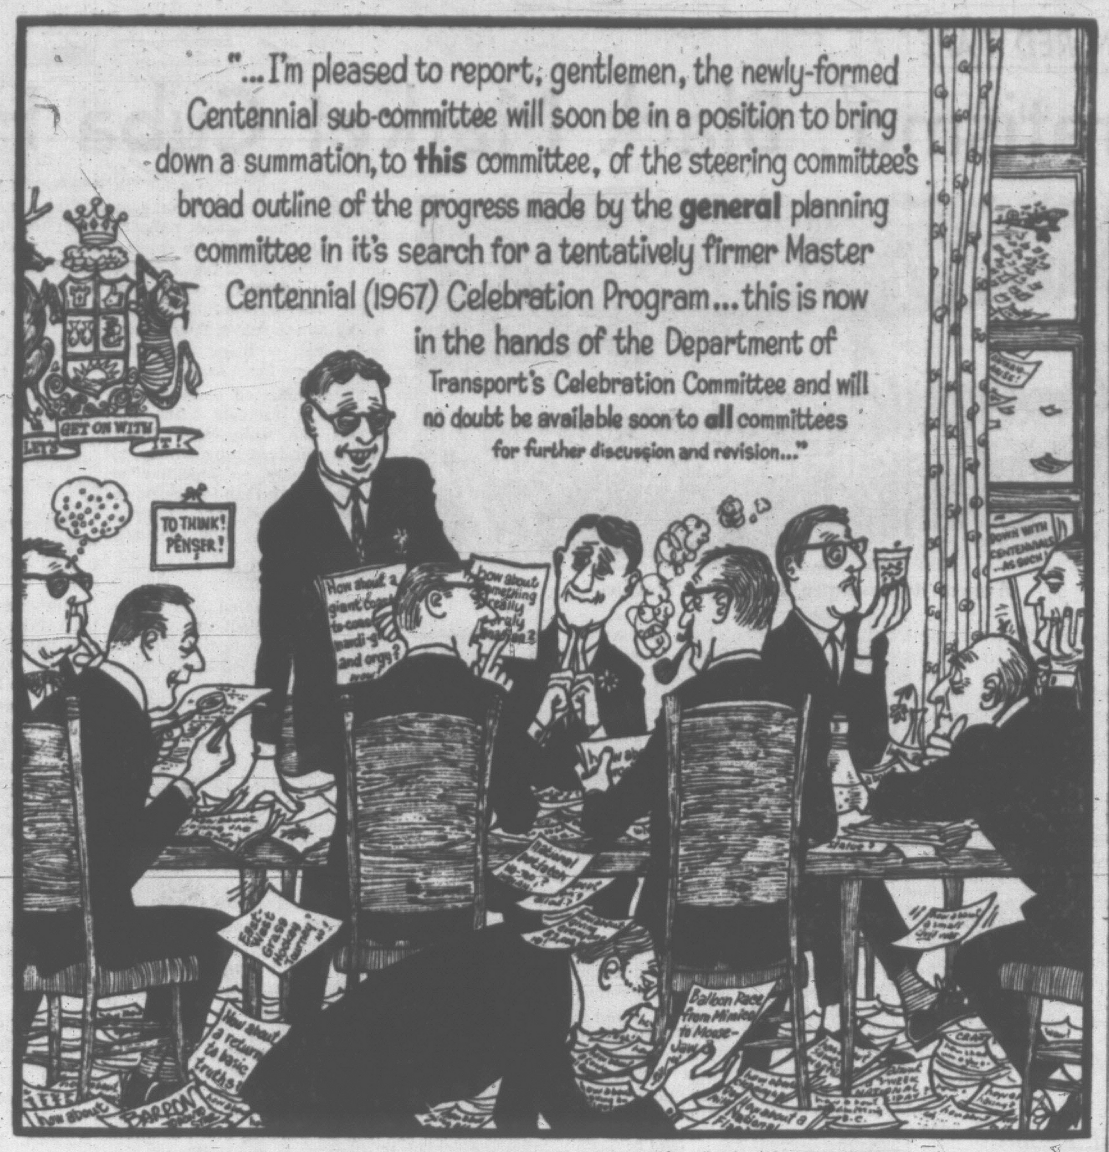

HOW MUCH IS A COLLEGE sheepskin worth? Over a man's working life in the United States it's worth about $150,000 more than a certificate for high school graduation, according to figures compiled by the United States Bureau of the Census.

The earning figures are, of course, American, but the supporting data should interest Canadians weighing, at an early age, the influences which will bring them high pay.

The Census Bureau's figures show that the annual income of a holder of a high-school diploma rose from $3,800 in 1949 to $6,100 in 1961. The man with the college degree received increasingly more during those years until, in 1961, his earnings averaged $3,400 above the high school diploma holder.

During the same period the elementary school graduate earned from $3,000 in 1947 to $4,700 in 1961.

For a Canadian comparison, earnings in the different categories would have to be scaled down, but the variations between the wages of a person with Grade 8 education and one with a university degree would doubtless prove just as interesting.

THE POLITICAL WILL FOR UNITY — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Next Year or Two Must Be Vital

WHEN President Kennedy launched a series of policies which others optimistically called the Grand Design it was said in Washington that the time had come for an immediate, revolutionary advance in human history. The industrial nations of the Atlantic region knew that their economic concerns were completely inter-dependent, that real prosperity must be shared by all or none. They knew, or seemed to know, that the final issue of war or peace was beyond the control of any single government, however powerful, that outright national sovereignty was dead.

Hutchison

Man's situation had thus been entirely transformed by his bread-and-butter business, by his weapons and by the threat of his destruction. Therefore his international institutions must be transformed also.

Now it is said that President de Gaulle wrecked the Grand Design by his veto against Britain at Brussels, but this is too short a view. Actually the original concept of a Europe united in some kind of political federation, which might then expand into a broader political Community of the Atlantic, had been quietly postponed long before the veto of Brussels.

No Surrender

More than two years ago that far-seeing German statesman, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, told this writer in Bonn that "we realize among the Six, where originally so many hopes had been harbored, that France is not inclined to surrender any part of her sovereignty . . . The feeling of belonging together more closely in politics will certainly grow. But this will not lead to the setting up of an entirely new state of Europe."

So it has turned out. The political aspects of the Rome Treaty have been put off indefinitely, though its economic plans went ahead to build the Common Market. Early this year the Grand Design suffered another and much graver reverse when Britain was excluded from Europe's economic integration.

It is plain now that the development of transatlantic political institutions for the new human situation will take more time and much more ingenuity than the idealists of America and Europe had expected. The timetable has been revised but a detour is not, or need not be, a retreat. For in fact international institutions under other names but all limiting the sovereignty of the great powers are growing up around us every day. The real question, as Dr. Erhard said, is not these "technical solutions" but "the political will" for unity.

Today the political will is questioned simultaneously on two fronts, military and economic. Can the strained NATO alliance be pulled together? Can the Kennedy Round of GATT tariff negotiations succeed?

Practical Questions

These are the practical questions which must be answered before we can usefully consider the Grand Design of a political community spanning the Atlantic. If its nations cannot adequately plan even their collective military defence, if they cannot rationalize their trade and thus increase their wealth, what is the use of talking about some remote supra-national government? They must learn to walk before they can run.

All the disheartening events of the last year, however, have a logic which the impatient New Frontiersmen of Washington sometimes refuse to recognize. Out of a longer experience the British perhaps see things more clearly.

The United States was created almost overnight by an intricate binding constitution—the original American Grand Design—whereas the British system evolved slowly, pragmatically and loosely by the trial and error of centuries. Hence the instinctive American faith in documents, machinery and sudden solutions, the British reliance on patient experiment.

In the present Atlantic situation the British method must be followed since the premature American hope has failed.

The United States government has reconciled itself to this necessity with more patience, intelligence and maturity than most foreigners probably expected. When frustrated in their plans for a miracle which lacked what Dr. Erhard calls "the political will," the Kennedy government wisely addressed itself to the totally inadequate military and economic foundations of the Atlantic Community in the belief that the political superstructure would rise in its own good season.

This practical approach has been advocated by no one more sensibly than Mr. Dean Acheson, who urges the strengthening of the free world alliance as a first step, an expansion of trade as the second.

If these two steps succeed, he says, they "would put us on the verge of another great advance in the development of the Atlantic Community and would require political agreements and political institutions of a most far-reaching nature." Then Mr. Acheson adds a warning which strikes to the bone of the Atlantic dilemma.

"The institutions in themselves," he says, "amounts to little. Importance lies in the extent and solidity of the agreements as to what they are to do." The American people, he adds, are fascinated by machinery but they must not allow mere methods to become "an end in themselves."

The great ends of the Atlantic nations must be a community of economics and politics but the experience of the last year has taught them that economics must come first. If an economic community can be built in stages—its next stage being the Kennedy Round of GATT—we may be sure that parallel political institutions will evolve, though we cannot foresee their shape or their timing, simply because nations that earn their livelihood together must pool and, indeed, are already pooling their sovereignty.

Must Grow

Idealists yearn for some neat blueprint, a paper constitution of Atlantic or world government, a millennium by decree on a fixed date. The practical statesmen know that things don't work that way in human relations, that a society cannot be invented but must grow.

An Atlantic society—not isolated from the world but protecting its peace and nourishing its wealth as no other society can do—is man's true hope. Whether it can be grasped or must elude us through lack of "the political will" we shall not know for a long time yet but plainly the next year or two must be vital.

The management of NATO in military, and of the Kennedy Round in economic affairs will begin to tell us that we are moving forward to success or backward not to failure but to ultimate disaster.

As Our Readers See It

Not Well Qualified

As an ardent supporter of Russian state capitalism and lukewarm advocate of big Western capitalism, Victoria's Ernest Knott is not well qualified to be very concerned over 7,000 people in this area being denied citizenship and job opportunities just because they lean more to the East than they do to the West.

Both exploiting regimes deny their non-owning, ordinary people the right to control their destinies by denying them the right to own the means whereby they live.

Not That Kind of Work

Many thanks for publishing my letter regarding small dogs in the Victoria Day parade. May I ask your indulgence again?

Your correspondent should not underestimate other people. I happen to know quite a bit about the origin and capabilities of the West Highland terriers. I do agree they are a working dog—only not that sort of work.

She missed the point completely. My complaint was that the dogs were used in such a way on such a warm day.

These dogs are of Scottish origin and one would scarcely call Scotland a warm country. They are bred to withstand COLD—NOT HEAT. I did NOT say my dogs couldn't stand the heat. I said they were very uncomfortable.

My old dog is now nearly 11 years old. Sight and hearing still keen and a complete set of perfect teeth. (Guess her diet is alright!) She thinks she is still a puppy, and as I hope to have her around for a long time yet I have to restrain her at times.

She has never been walked on city streets, having lived all her life in a country place—till the last three years on the Mainland.

I would like to thank all those who have taken the trouble to write and telephone me, and for messages received indirectly, commending me for my first letter. I am very glad to know that others object to seeing a dog wearing clothes.

LONDON

Road to Rhodesia

By COLIN LEGUM

LAST week's failure of the negotiations between the Southern Rhodesian Prime Minister, Mr. Winston Field, and Britain's Minister in charge of Central African Affairs, Mr. R. A. Butler, leaves the initiative for further action in British hands.

Mr. Field—who has been demanding independence for the self-governing colony of Southern Rhodesia ever since the decision was taken last March to wind up the Central African Federation — entered the London talks with high hopes of being able to return home with a political victory. No such victory has been won.

Nevertheless at a press conference he went out of his way to deny that the failure to reach agreement had produced anything in the nature of a fresh crisis between Britain and Southern Rhodesia. And this, in fact, is a victory for Mr. Butler.

Once again he has succeeded in keeping open the possibility of negotiations, while at the same time keeping down the political temperature in Southern Rhodesia. The longer he succeeds in delaying precipitate action, either by the white minority or the black majority in the colony, the greater the chances of heading off a conflict between the races in Southern Rhodesia, and between the white leaders and Britain.

Danger Receded

Three months ago, when the decision to end the Federation was taken, the chances were that the white leaders would be ready to take unilateral action in defying Britain and African opinion by declaring independence for Southern Rhodesia. That danger has receded.

Political leaders in Southern Rhodesia have had sufficient time to consider the economic, political and security risks involved in precipitately snatching at independence. European opinion has moved from strong emotional enthusiasm for such action to a more sober-minded assessment of what this action might mean.

They have taken a long look at the disastrous economic situation that would face Southern Rhodesia. Already their economic problems have become acute, as will become clear when Mr. Field's government shortly produces its first budget.

They have also come to understand that if they were to snatch their independence it would mean their certain exclusion from the Commonwealth and their isolation in Africa and among the Western countries. They have heard from South Africa that the Verwoerd government would not take them into the Republic, and that South Africa is against Southern Rhodesia breaking away from British protection.

The reason for this is that South Africa wants to see Southern Rhodesia remain a buffer between itself and the "Black North," and the only way this buffer can be retained is if the present situation is maintained more or less intact.

Only one important leader in Southern Rhodesia today favors a unilateral declaration of independence — Sir Roy Welensky, the Federal Prime Minister. Despite all his protestations about wishing to retire from politics and to devote himself to writing, gardening and fishing, Sir Roy is working behind the scenes to try to re-establish a position for himself in Southern Rhodesian politics.

Double Block

But he is being blocked from two sides—by Mr. Field, who has so far rebuffed every advance made by Sir Roy for a united front; and by his own colleague, Sir Edgar Whitehead.

Sir Edgar, former Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia and Sir Roy's chief lieutenant, is determined to go his own way. He and Sir Roy are hardly on speaking terms these days. Thus, Sir Roy is now the most isolated of politicians in the country.

The black nationalist forces too are temporarily in the doldrums. When the leaders of Zapu (the Zimbabwe African People's Union) rushed off to Tanganyika last month to be ready to proclaim a government-in-exile they did so because they believed the Field Government was on the point of either being granted independence by Britain, or was on the point of taking it.

Now Zapu's problem is to decide whether all or most of its leaders should return home to continue their political activities there.

One heard much criticism among Africans and whites of Zapu's leadership. There is considerable canvassing for new leaders to replace Mr. Josua Nkomo and his colleagues. But there is little doubt that Zapu is still regarded as the voice of the politically articulate Africans; so far nobody has yet emerged who looks like offering a serious challenge to Mr. Nkomo.

Thus the present situation in Southern Rhodesia remains fluid. As shown in a recent byelection, white opinion continues to move steadily Right in support of the Field Government and away from Sir Edgar Whitehead's more moderate policy.

Urgent Task

The urgent task now facing Mr. Butler is how to proceed in winding up the Federation. He is under extreme pressure from Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland to implement his policy of liquidating the Federation, but he has been unwilling to make any strong move until he had given Southern Rhodesia every chance of joining in a conference to discuss how the break-up should be achieved.

Thus, although Mr. Butler has succeeded in heading off a crisis in Southern Rhodesia, he has not yet succeeded in getting Mr. Field's agreement to co-operate on the Federal front.

It now seems inevitable that Mr. Butler will have no alternative but to take the initiative for winding up the Federation. This is the next stage of the political struggle in Central Africa.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

What Can You Tell 'Em?

AT the end of last week men of good intent gave to students who have spent four years in high school some advice calculated to be of value to the young people, many of whom were finishing their formal education and all of whom were passing a milestone in their lives.

Stott

It is a matter of doubt to me that advice from their elders carries much weight with the young. I am not even sure that the two generations communicate—that one gets across to the other the ideas and sentiments either wishes to convey.

Still, I think it's worth a try—and I assure anyone who has never spoken at recognition exercises; which used to be called, less precisely, graduation exercises, that the effort becomes more difficult with the years.

It's reasonably safe to assume that most of the speakers this year dealt with the tremendous breakthroughs in science and technology, spoke of the space age and, if they were frank, admitted an inability to predict what lies ahead in those fields.

* * *

Some of the elders probably confessed a sense of helplessness in guiding the forces which will make future lives follow certain courses. And conceivably others accepted the view that the values which seemed significant, even all-important, in their youth might no longer apply to the society that lies ahead.

So what, then, has an older person to tell a young man or young woman filled with the knowledge that never seems so all-embracing as it does at the close of high school—unless it's in the early years of college?

I've come to the fumbling conclusion that the best point you can make to the new generation is that its members have to share the earth we live on with over three billion other people—and that we have to learn how to share it.

This doesn't mean that every boy or girl leaving high school in Greater Victoria this month must condition his or her every move to be sure that it will not injure or offend a specific yak-herder in Outer Mongolia.

It does no harm to remember the yak-herder occasionally, but in day-to-day living he cannot be the absorbing concern of every Western individual.

But if the young people leaving high school in Greater Victoria this June learn how to live with people around them, they stand a fairly good chance of learning how to live with those whose homes are more remote.

They used to call this inclination to take into account the rights, privileges and even idiosyncracies of other folk by the simple word consideration. If you were considerate, you didn't walk over someone else in your climb toward what you wanted. If you were considerate, you didn't punch in the nose everyone who got in your way or who made a mistake that might hurt you. You preserved a certain respect for the other person's feelings, hopes, strengths and lack of strength. You made allowances for error and hoped that others would make allowances for the flaws in your makeup and behavior.

You might even take time to remember that "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us" is more than a phrase that slips too often in meaningless sibilance over human lips.

* * *

It may be that fourth year high school students in 1963 are too young to remember one of the thoughtful little songs that lent meaning to "South Pacific"—the one that says something like "You've got to be taught to love and hate, you've got to be taught before it's too late, you've got to be carefully taught."

This point of view no longer sounds mawkish to me. Maybe it's pollyanna. At the same time, it seems to be a reasonably practical way of living in the world we know, and a hopeful projection for the world that will exist, barring tragic accident, when the high school students are the age of the men of good intent who spoke to them last week.

They're going to have to share the world with a lot of people, including the yak-tender of Outer Mongolia—and they are going to have to realize that what they hold good and desirable in their own way of life may not seem so good or desirable to the other people.

And there's a pretty good reason for trying to develop in the young this appreciation for others. The old game of "Bang, you're dead" has been changed. It could quite easily be "Bang, we're all dead."

Doesn't look so unrealistically idealistic when you view it that way, does it?

Malay Confederation Agreement Reached

MANILA (UPI) — Malaya, Indonesia and The Philippines Tuesday announced "acceptance of the idea" of a Philippine proposal to form a Malay confederation which would unite the three nations "into the closest association."

It would be expected to resemble the Organization of American States in which each nation would retain its sovereignty and government while consulting from time to time on mutual problems.

A joint communique issued at the end of a four-day conference of the foreign ministers of the three nations appeared to be a cautious endorsement of the Philippines' proposal with no indication of a formal agreement to form the confederation.

"The three ministers examined the Philippine proposal embodying President Macapagal's idea for the establishment of a confederation of nations of Malay origin and agreed on the acceptance of the idea as a means of bringing together their countries into the closest association," the communique said.

Employment Improving

OTTAWA (CP)—The seasonal upswing in business activity cut the Canadian employment roll to 346,000 in mid-May, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the federal labor department reported today in a joint statement

This was 116,000 lower than a month earlier. Though this was a sizeable drop, the statement said it was smaller "than that indicated by the seasonal pattern."

The jobless total was 10,000 lower at 346,000 in mid-May last year.

Latest figure is equal to 5.2 per cent of the labor force, compared with unemployment rates of 5.1 per cent in May, 1962, and seven per cent in May, 1961.

Employment rose seasonally between April and May by 215,000 to 6,312,000, one per cent higher than a year earlier.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Shows Follow Open Door Policy

With a flower show scheduled for this Saturday and a two-day show for the end of next week, a few points concerning them come to my mind.

Hilda

One quite commonly asked question comes from folks who have never visited a flower show. Is there an admission price?

Yes, in nearly every case at local shows, admission is charged, usually 50 cents.

At the Victoria West show on Saturday of this week, the admission includes afternoon tea. The show is being held in St. Saviour's Parish Hall, at the corner of Catherine and Henry Streets, and is a fund-raising project for a phase of church work.

Another question which occurs is: Can anyone outside of the sponsoring group enter flowers or other garden produce in competition?

Again the answer is yes. It is necessary to obtain beforehand a schedule of classes from the secretary or show chairman. This includes general rules which must be adhered to, in order that judging may be made on an equal basis for each entry.

A third question which I have been asked is: Can anyone go to see these shows, or are they only for members of the group?

All flower shows are open to the general public—the more the better.

To enter the Victoria West show you would need to get a schedule this evening from Mrs. T. Watling, at EV 4-8461, in order to have an entry at the hall by Friday evening.

For the summer show on Friday and Saturday of next week phone George Wiggan, secretary of the Victoria Horticultural Society. He will be glad to mail you a show schedule and give you any help you need. His number is GR 7-3265.

This two-day show is being held at the Curling Rink, on Quadra Street. Admission will be 50 cents, which goes towards the rental and other expenses incurred for the show.

Interest Rate Curb Measure Gets Nowhere

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons debated last week the first of 12 private members' bills relating to interest rates charged by lending institutions but the measure did not come to a vote.

Reid, Scott (NDP — Toronto-Danforth) proposed a bill that would set a limit of 10 per cent on interest rates that can be charged by all lending institutions. He also proposed that money-lenders be required to divulge the cost of a loan to any borrower.

Mr. Scott said many lending houses are reputable, but many others "fleece the public" by charging interest rates ranging to 26 per cent.

The bill was "talked out" in the hour set aside for private members' business.

"One more axe job to your discredit," shouted Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) to the Liberals as the debate was adjourned indefinitely.

Self-Analysis Urged on Grads In North Saanich

Nearly 400 parents, relatives and friends paid tribute to 34 members of North Saanich Secondary School's 1963 graduating class Friday evening at recognition exercises in the school auditorium.

Guest speaker Gilbert Bunch, a former teacher at the school, reminded the class to take time to analyze themselves, to develop as individuals and to avoid the mass movement and mass thinking which is so easy and comfortable to follow.

Valedictorian was Miss Ann Aylard.

Elise Ann Aylard, Richard Abbot, Joan Burrows, Penny Clark, Sylvia Corbett, Catherine C. Douma, Victor R. Eng, Elaine E. Erickson, Frederick C. Guthrie, Ruby J. Hartshorne, Ronald J. Meet Chiquita Brand Bananas

Some bananas come from the tropics unprotected... get exposed to bumps and bruises. Now Chiquita Brand Bananas are shipped in heavy boxes, to protect them from bruises inside and out.

Remember how it used to be? You could never really tell, whenever you bought a banana, whether you might be getting a peach—or a lemon.

It might be bruised on the inside. But you couldn't always tell from the outside.

Now there's something brand new at your store: Chiquita Brand Bananas. Now you can judge a banana by its cover.

Instead of coming up from the tropics in their birthday suits—on big stems—these bananas come in strong fiber boxes. To protect them from bruises, inside and out.

So next time you shop, make sure you get Chiquita Brand Bananas.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER ARRESTED

'A Group of Sick People'

Sunday school teacher Thomas H. Carson admitted in Saanich police court Tuesday he had obscene movies, pictures and stories in his possession for distribution to a select circle of his friends.

Police said they have a list of the people who received the obscene material from Carson and it includes "well-known and well-respected citizens of this community."

The middle-aged businessman, who lives at 2511 Maynard, was remanded to June 20 by Magistrate William Ostler for probation report and sentence.

'SICK PEOPLE'

After a quick look at some of the pictures and stories found in Carson's home, the magistrate said that people who collect them would have to be "quite a group of sick people."

Detective Robin Stewart said Carson was "a very good bookkeeper" and the police have names of all persons who received material from him.

The detective said Carson was associated with a wife-swapping group and he helped organize a group for stag movies in 1959.

The activities of the group got "worse and worse" and Carson admitted they eventually even "sickened himself," Detective Stewart said. Several original members of the group dropped out at this time.

Carson typed stories dealing with males and females and young people in acts of gross indecency and then sent them to his associates, Det. Stewart testified. Carson also took photographs of persons committing indecent acts.

All the persons receiving this material were adults known to the accused and Carson did not charge for the material.

BAIL REFUSED

Carson is the Vancouver Island manager of Muirhead Forwarding Co. Until the end of last year he was superintendent of a Sunday school and since then has been a substitute teacher.

Magistrate Ostler refused bail. Carson's counsel said he was anxious to have the case over with as quickly as possible.

Said Magistrate Ostler: "I'm not surprised he wants to get it over quickly. It's like having a shower after falling in a septic tank."

Plane Turns Back For Safe Landing When Engine Dies

PENTICTON (CP)—A twin-engined Convair aircraft with 16 persons on board was forced to turn back shortly after taking off from the airport here Monday after trouble developed in one of its engines.

The westbound CPA aircraft made a normal landing on one engine and none of the 13 passengers and three crew members was injured.

The pilot feathered the propeller, turned around and landed.

The passengers were to be accommodated in Penticton until the regular 8:20 p.m. flight.

Headache Pill Hits Kidneys Doctor Warns

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP)—Phenacetin, an ingredient found in many headache compounds, can cause irreparable damage to the kidneys, says a Vancouver urologist.

Dr. John Balfour, head of the urology department at Vancouver General Hospital, said this newly-recognized "phenacetin disease" occurs most frequently among middle-aged women, often diabetics, who have taken large and frequent doses of pills containing the ingredient for several years.

Speaking last week to the annual scientific session of the general practice section of the British Columbia Medical Association, he said many women are addicted to the pills but that the addiction is easily broken.

Dr. Balfour said phenacetin taken in massive quantities can destroy structures called papillae within the kidneys. The papillae die and are sloughed off, leaving cavities in the kidneys.

The kidneys become more susceptible to bacterial infection and if the intake of phenacetin is unchecked may even fail to function, causing death, he said.

If the phenacetin is stopped, the doctor said, the patient's condition rapidly improves but the damage to the kidneys cannot be corrected.

He said the ingredient is not found in simple acetylsalicylic acid pills marketed as aspirin.

Piped Water Estimate Sought

Prospect Lake Community Association will ask Saanich council to estimate the cost of piping water from the Greater Victoria system to the lake district.

Members at a meeting Tuesday decided to look into costs of bringing water to the district following a claim that the lake water is unfit to drink.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical officer for metropolitan board of health, has recommended that the water be boiled before drinking.

The meeting, chaired by Brian Hoole, president, also agreed to seek some controls on power boats on the lake. A delegation will discuss the matter with the Saanich parks committee.

WORST DROUGHT IN HISTORY

Hong Kong Gets Emergency Water

HONG KONG (AP)—Water is flowing into Hong Kong by plane, ship and ferry—and in some cases in little plastic bags carried by airline passengers—to help relieve the worst drought in the history of the British colony.

British, United States and other warships that use Hong Kong as a recreation port also are helping by distilling harbor water for parched consumers in Hong Kong.

"Everybody's pitching in," a government official said. "The amount that's coming in is only a fraction of our needs, but every drop counts and we're eternally grateful."

Several shipping firms have joined in the effort to help Hong Kong survive a seven-month drought that has dealt a severe blow to industry and has reduced individual water rations to four hours' supply of tap water every four days.

Ferries from the nearby Portuguese colony of Macao are planning to ship 100,000 gallons of water daily to Hong Kong in tanks and drums. The Taipei waterworks in Formosa is airfreighting 20,000 gallons and the Taipei Lions Club is contributing 2,000 gallons by distributing 10-pound plastic bags of fresh water to airline passengers bound for Hong Kong.

These add up to a few drops in the bucket compared to the 40,000,000 gallons Hong Kong's industries and its 3,500,000 residents consume daily under restricted rations. Normal consumption is 100,000,000 gallons daily.

Japan has promised 1,000,000 gallons of distilled water and the first two shipments arrived last week.

Some U.S. ships have started taking on water in Japan and discharging it here. A freighter brought in 480,000 gallons of water distilled in Manila.

Rain is the only final solution to Hong Kong's many reservoirs, now down to around 30 days' supply based on restricted rations.

TWO-WEEK 'Y' COURSE

Crash Program For Splashers

If things run true to form, nearly 300 youngsters will get solid grounding in the art of swimming this summer during Victoria "Y"s crash swim program.

Some will even learn to swim during the two-week course in which the youngsters will receive six lessons.

"If a kid's ready we can teach him to swim in one lesson," Art Burgess, "Y" physical director, claims.

"But to do this we would have to give him our undivided attention for the whole lesson. What would we do with the other 20 kids in the class?"

"We're not going to guarantee we can make a swimmer out of every child in our class, but we can teach him not to fear the water—we can show him it can be a lot of fun. That way if he gets knocked down into the water at the beach, he's going to get up because he can handle himself to some extent," he said.

The crash program formula is quite simple: more exposure to instruction in a short period of time equals a child who can pick up more and retain more.

"In the winter," Mr. Burgess explained, "a youngster enrolled in a 'Y' beginners' class usually gets one lesson a week. The kids get wet regularly for three months. They also catch colds because of the weather and miss lessons.

"I like to compare our winter swim program to a glacier. You don't notice a glacier's progress from day to day but if you come back after three months you can see quite a change."

To insure the success of the summer swim instruction program, a good student-instructor ratio will be assured as a number of boys of high school age will assist in the teaching.

They have just completed an eight-week practice teaching course with five pupils under the supervision of Mr. Burgess and his staff.

There will be two sets of classes, from July 2 to July 12 and from July 15 to July 26.

Additional enquiries and registration will be handled at Victoria YMCA from now until classes commence.

FAVORING President Kennedy's plan for a fresh start in nuclear test ban negotiations, Harold E. Stassen, special adviser to former President Eisenhower on disarmament, says he believes there is a 50-50 hope of success.

PARKING BAN ON NORTH DOUGLAS CUTS BUSINESS DRASTICALLY

Hard-Hit Stores Try for Joint Parking Lot

Merchants along north Douglas Street, feeling the pinch of the 11-month parking ban, are moving toward establishment of a community parking lot for their customers.

Leader of the movement to forestall collapse of small businesses in the area, is Ronald R. Bissenden, proprietor of Clarke's Auto and Truck Parts, a car-wrecking concern at 3233 Douglas Street.

Last Monday, Saanich council turned down his request to rezone a lot adjoining his property for parking purposes. Municipal planners felt that such rezoning would only serve as an expansion for Mr. Bissenden's business.

His business, established before zoning regulations were applied to his property, has a temporary licence.

However, Mr. Bissenden says that a parking lot is desperately needed.

Already several small merchants in the area have had to move out and some have gone bankrupt due to the parking ban, which drastically cut business.

The ban was a condition laid down by the provincial government in contributing to the beautification and widening of the street.

Mr. Bissenden has dropped his original application which he said was "railroaded" through council. He was not even notified his case was to be discussed, he claimed.

However, sure of support from fellow merchants, he will present a new application to rezone the adjoining lot for a community parking lot.

Career Ended for Kidd?

TORONTO (UPI)—Bruce Kidd, Canada's ace distance runner, said Tuesday night he may never race again because of a foot ailment.

The 19-year-old athlete said an inflamation in his heel had forced him to cancel performances for at least a month and that if the injury does not mend, "I won't be able to run again, period."

Kidd, a standout in three and six-mile runs, said the injury likely was caused by his unorthodox running style. Unlike other distance racers, he runs on his toes like a sprinter.

He said this causes the ligaments to pull away from the ankle.

The sidelining of Kidd, top track attraction in Canada, dealt a blow to the organizers of the first annual Toronto International Games June 25. He also will miss the U.S. national championships in St. Louis, the East York Dominion Day meet and probably the Canadian championships at Saskatoon.

Persistent Hook Results In Defeat for Medallist

MAUREEN HIBBERSON

COLLEEN SMITH
. . . strong threat

By DOUG PEDEN

Refusing to allow a safety margin for a persistent error can be a disastrous habit in fairway battles.

It proved to be just that for Vancouver's Barbara Renwick Tuesday at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club.

Playing in the first round of the B.C. women's Close tournament after grabbing medal honors Monday with a six-over-par 83, the youthful swinger was having a troublesome day against Victoria's Maureen Hibberson.

Most of her trouble was caused by a persistent hook, a disadvantage that was offset by Mrs. Hibberson's trend for slicing shots off the tees. It all added up to some erratic golf and an interesting match in which there was never more than one hole difference between the long-hitting rivals.

They were even after nine, 11 and 15 holes. Both missed good chances at birdie putts on the 16th green and stepped to the 17th tee still all square.

Then Barbara, a 20-year-old five-handicapper, ran into her big trouble as she declined to favor the right side to allow for possible hooking woes.

She got away with it off the tee, her drive somehow brushing through tree branches and bouncing 195 yards down the fairway, while Maureen swept a slice into light rough on the right, but recovered with a booming shot to good position in front of the green.

Miss Renwick slammed her second shot. It hooked into a trap. From that chunk of sand she blasted short into another bunker. It took her two to get out of that one and she finally got down with a triple-bogey seven.

Maureen Left Door Open on 18th

That was the golf game, although Mrs. Hibberson left the door wide open on the 18th when she hit her second shot poorly after a short drive. The tourney medallist went for the green on her second shot — and hooked it, the ball rolling down a steep bank into trees.

She needed two more shots to get on the green and Mrs. Hibberson, formerly one of B.C.'s finest badminton players, chipped on in four and putted carefully, getting down for a bogey six that gave her a half and the ups 1-up win that sent the tourney into a flutter.

In today's matches, Mrs. Hibberson was playing Joan Lawson, an Uplands clubmate who edged Vancouver's Mrs. R. Garnett, 1-up, Tuesday.

In other quarter-final tussles it was defending champion Gayle Hitchens against Victoria champion Maragaret Todd, Colleen Smith against Mrs. R. Patrick in an all-Vancouver argument, and Gorge Vale's Shirley Naysmith against Gertie Beaton of Vancouver.

Mrs. Naysmith, firing birdies on four par-five holes, came up with the best medal tally of the day. And she needed her three-over-par effort over the 16 holes required to get by Colwood's Edna Hay, finalist in the recent city tourney.

One down after four, Mrs. Naysmith went ahead with birds on the fifth and sixth and forged into a comfortable lead with birdies on the 10th and 12th holes and a par on the 11th.

Miss Hitchens, holder of the Canadian Open crown, got away to a slow start against Sheila Bentley but whipped her game into shape after four holes and carved out a 6-and-5 triumph over her Vancouver rival.

Mrs. Todd, who lost a 3-and-1 decision to Miss Hitchens in last year's final, also fired a string of sharp shots. She won six of the first nine holes and wound up with a 7-and-5 win over Lillian Thirlwell.

Another veteran campaigner who fired some impressive shots was Miss Smith, who seldom strayed far from par as she fashioned a 2-and-1 victory over Marilyn Palmer, the promising Kamloops swinger who Monday won the provincial junior crown.

Mrs. Beaton advanced with a 3-and-1 win over Mrs. J. Smythe and Mrs. Patrick ousted Miss R. Minkie by a 5-and-3 count.

Probably the least excited about Monday's upset was Mrs. Hibberson.

"Barbara hit all the bad luck she could find," Maureen commented. "She was hooking worse than I was slicing. I really didn't win it. She lost it."

THEY'LL BE FACING RUGGED CHORE

There is strength in this trio of defenders and Victoria's soccer all-stars will probably need all their talents at Royal Athletic Park next Monday evening against England's touring Wolverhampton Wanderers. Leaping for ball in practice session, goalie Barry Sadler and fullbacks Dave Sfothard (left) and Len Anderson (right) are expected to encounter stiff test against goal-hungry forwards of Wolves, who play Bangu of Brazil Saturday at Vancouver. Snead Still After Initial Open Win

(Associated Press)

When the United States Open golf classic begins at Brookline, Mass., next week, Sam Snead will be in there trying for his first win in 23 shots at the title.

Competing with 114 hot-shots in the toughest sectional qualifying competition of them all at Purchase, N.Y., Tuesday, Snead, 51, fired rounds of 69 and 71 for a 140 total that easily put him among the 150-man field for the open June 20-22.

The last 99 places for Brookline were determined at seven locations Tuesday with 45 berths awarded at Purchase, 20 at Detroit, 10 at Pittsburgh, seven each at Atlanta and Winchester, Mass., six at Bakersfield, Calif., and four at Fort Worth, Tex. The first 30 were settled Monday at six other spots.

The 129 survivors will join 21 exempt players, headed by defending champion Jack Nicklaus, in next week's battling for the 63rd open championship.

Al Johnston of Montreal carded a 74-69—143 at Purchase, Al Balding of Toronto had 73-72—145 at Detroit and veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver, also at Detroit, was 78-68—146.

Bill Ezinicki, former hockey star from Winnipeg who now lives in Plymouth, Mass., qualified Monday with 69-76—145 at Winchester.

Rough Team Sports Give Medics Concern

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian doctors voiced concern Tuesday that team sports may be getting too rough.

The medical attitudes toward sports were aired in lectures and a panel discussion at the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association.

"Some of us are concerned about hockey getting too rough" said Dr. James Melvin, an orthopedic surgeon in Kingston, Ont., who acts as doctor for the Queen's University hockey team.

"Hockey is just as exciting when played under international rules, which rule out a lot of the charging, boarding and holding increasingly seen in the Canadian game — even among the young fellows."

Dr. Melvin suggested the decline of lacrosse in Canada may have resulted from "unnecessary roughness."

FOOTBALL WORSE

Doctors discussing athletic injuries on a panel said improvement of football protective equipment has resulted in even more violent bodily contact because players feel more secure. Although the days of broken noses and lost teenth are disappearing, serious injuries seem to be more frequent.

The modern football helmet with attached, single-bar nose guard is responsible for broken necks, the panel was told. When a player is brought down heavily, face down, the nose guard acts as a lever, snapping the head forward and sometimes damaging the neck vertebrae.

EXAMINATION FIRST

The doctors discussed the moral and medical issues involved in "freezing" an athlete's injury with an injection of procaine so he can continue to play a game without pain. They agreed generally that such action is justified only after thorough examination reveals no damage to muscles and ligaments that might be aggravated by exercise.

The panel unanimously decided against any use of stimulant drugs by athletes on moral, medical and ethical grounds.

Max Expects Better Help From Rangers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Manager-coach Max McNabb says he expects Vancouver Canuck's working agreement with New York Rangers will be firmer than ever in the next Western Hockey League season.

"The Rangers know how tough the WHL is becoming," he said, "and I'm sure we'll be treated accordingly.

"New York was well pleased by our performance last year."

The Canuck boss said Vancouver will have access to all the players who made up last season's team except defenceman Adam Keller and Marty Howe, both lost in the National Hockey League draft.

Arrows to Fly

Annual Vancouver Island Archery Association championships will be held at Camp Colwell, south of Nanaimo, on Sunday, June 30, and Monday, July 1. Association will hold its annual meeting at the camp June 30 at 7 p.m.

'Poor, Struggling Guys' Lash Out at Mr. Nicklaus

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus' suggestion for a curtailment of the pro golf tour drew a heated blast Tuesday from Doug Ford, former PGA and Masters champion.

Other players joined in the dissenting tune.

"Sure, Nicklaus is in favor of a shorter tournament schedule, and why shouldn't he be?" Ford fumed. "That's because he has it made, he's on top.

"But what about all the poor, struggling guys trying to make the grade? Jack's not thinking about them. He's thinking only about himself. It's a very selfish attitude, I think."

Nicklaus, 23-year-old Masters and U.S. Open champion, said in Brookline, Mass., Monday that the PGA circuit was "getting out of hand" and that the schedule should be cut to 30 tournaments a year. At present, there are more than 40.

Nicklaus said the abbreviated tournament card would give players a chance to play exhibitions and unofficial money competitions.

"Nicklaus only wants to play in the big money events," Ford said. "If a tournament doesn't offer a big purse, he skips it. He doesn't seem to feel he has an obligation to the sponsors.

"Jack has been more fortunate than most of us. He had a brilliant career as an amateur. He jumped into the pro ranks and immediately hit the jackpot.

Bob Goalby said he felt Nicklaus was acting hastily. "Jack is a good kid but he hasn't fully matured," Goalby said. "These are things you learn with time. I'm one of the guys still struggling to make the grade."

Claude Harmon, former Masters champion who isn't one of the tour players, said: "I think curtailment of the tournament schedule would hurt the game—like knocking out the minor leagues in baseball."

GRAPHIC ARTS TOURNEY AT COLWOOD SUNDAY

Past history of the event suggests that course records for fairway efficiency won't be in the slightest danger when the Graphic Arts golf tournament is staged next Sunday.

Members of the printing trades, seldom noted for golfing talent, are scheduled to step to the first tee at the Royal Colwood course at 2 p.m. in the 29th running of their annual tee party.

They don't guarantee good golf, but they do expect a lot of fun and will hand out a flock of prizes for divoting efforts. Prizes will be presented following a smorgasbord in the clubhouse at 7:30.

Twins' Muggsy Delivers Goods

United Press International

Remember Eddie Stanky, the modern Muggsy of Brooklyn's "Ferocious Gentlemen?"

"He can't hit, he can't field and he can't run," they said about Stanky. "But in a tough game he'll find a way to beat you."

Well, they're saying pretty much the same things about another second baseman today—Bernie Allen of the Minnesota Twins. Allen is a skinny guy often overlooked among all those Minnesota muscle men but he's maintained his regular status despite a .164 batting average.

The 24-year-old native of East Liverpool, Ohio, made his manager's words look good Tuesday night when the Twins beat Chicago White Sox, 8-6, for their 16th victory in 20 games and moved to within 2½ games of the American League lead.

TIGHT RELIEF WORK

Allen went to the plate in the ninth inning with one out and Rich Rollins on second base. First base was open but White Sox relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm elected to pitch to the .164-hitter who had made only seven singles in his previous 68 trips to the plate.

But Allen crossed up the strategy with a double to right centre field and then scored the icing run on a pinch single by Jimmy Hall. The win went to relief pitcher Bill Dailey, who yielded one run in 2⅓ innings and now has allowed only that single tally in his last 19⅓ frames.

Cleveland Indians beat Baltimore Orioles, 9-5, Boston Red Sox topped Detroit Tigers, 7-3, in 15 innings and Kansas City Athletics defeated Los Angeles Angels, 5-2, in other AL games.

San Francisco Giants' long suit is power but don't try to tell Los Angeles Dodgers they lack pitching.

BESTS DRYSDALE

Marichal is known as the Giants' "big pitcher"—the one they like to match against their rival's ace. He throws with a sweeping, high-kicking motion and he beat the Dodgers three times in four tries last season enroute to an over-all 18-11 record.

The 26-year-old right-hander made it two out of three for this season Tuesday night when he pitched a seven-hit 3-0 victory that knocked the Dodgers out of the National League lead and paved the way for St. Louis Cardinals to take over the top rung. The win raised Marichal's record to 9-3 and was especially impressive because it came against Don Drysdale, the 25-game winning Cy Young award ace of the 1962 Los Angeles staff.

The Cardinals beat Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-1, Houston Colts defeated Chicago Cubs, 6-2, in 10 innings, Philadelphia Phillies edged Milwaukee Braves, 8-7, in 10 innings and Cincinnati Reds whipped New York Mets, 8-3, in other NL action.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Paulie Armstead, 137½, Los Angeles, outpointed Bobby Scanlon, 130, Sacramento, 10.

Classy Wanderers Ready for Opener

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers landed here Tuesday, ready for one of the toughest matches of their North American tour.

The English First Division club meets Bangu of Brazil at Empire Stadium Saturday night in the 1963 version of Vancouver's annual international soccer exhibition game.

The Wolves have won the preceding six games of their tour and their hard, fast play and wide-open style has impressed more than one knowledgeable soccer man.

George Anderson of Winnipeg, secretary of the Canadian Soccer Football Association, said from San Francisco Monday night: "The Wolves are one of the best teams to tour Canada in recent years."

The team defeated Mexico's select "B" team 3-0 in an exhibition in San Francisco Sunday. The same Mexican side defeated Vancouver Canadians 3-0 in the Kennedy Cup competition in Los Angeles two weeks ago.

Five Canadian players have been named to the B.C. all-star team that will meet Wolves here June 19 after meeting a select Victoria side in Victoria June 17.

GOVERNMENT GUARANTEES NO LOSS . . . . . . ON TITLE FIGHT WITH FULLMER

Royal Homecoming for Nigeria's Dick Tiger

NEW YORK (AP)—In the purple twilight of a steaming July day, Dick Tiger will defend his world middleweight boxing title in a Nigerian soccer stadium.

They have picked a 7 p.m. starting time for this July 13 match in hopes of avoiding undue confusion and massive traffic jams in the dark.

A modern highway runs from Ibadan some 80 miles south to Lagos, the capital, but it is a two-lane road. If 50,000 or 60,000 turn up for the fight against ex-champ Gene Fullmer, a few fenders will be scraped on the way home.

Jersey Jones, the New York manager of Tiger, says the government is underwriting the title fight with about $280,000, guaranteeing promoter Jack Solomons of London that there will be no loss.

Jersey says Tiger is getting a $100,000 guarantee and Fullmer, his opponent for the third time, is getting $50,000 plus $10,000 in expense money.

The rest presumably will go for costs of the promotion and profits, if any.

It will be a royal homecoming for Tiger, born Dick Ihetu, on a farm in Amaigbo, Nigeria, Aug. 14, 1929. He left the farm for the city of Aba, to work for his brother John as a delivery boy.

When he started doing a little boxing on the side he had to leave his native land.

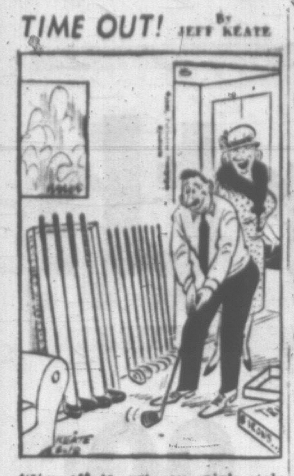

"To make any money I had to go to London," explained Tiger, who is doing light training for the July 13 fight in a New York gym.

When Tiger came home after winning the title from Fullmer last Oct. 23, he was a proud and happy man. He was received by every minister of state and given every honor Nigeria has to offer.

There never has been a title fight in Nigeria, which gained independence from Britain on Oct. 1, 1960. In fact the only championship bouts in Africa were held in Johannesburg in the days when Vic Towell was bantamweight champion.

Senior Lacrosse Final Tossed Back at West

TORONTO (CP)—Whether it wants it or not, western Canada will stage this year's Mann Cup series for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

And the westerners can expect a much stronger eastern representative because of emergency action taken last week by the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

The CLA stepped in to settle an east-west squabble which almost resulted in cancellation of this year's national finals.

CLA President M. E. Ferguson of Vancouver said, however, he was unaware of any change in plans to hold the event in the east.

"We (the CLA executive) decided the series will be played in the west even though one or two of the western clubs might not go along with it," said Johnson.

USUALLY ALTERNATES

The series usually alternates annually between east and west and was played last year at Brampton, Ont. However, the Ontario Lacrosse Association accepted a western offer at the CLA annual meeting to stage the event in the east again next year.

"But when the OLA delegates returned, their association took a dim view of it," said Johnson. "They wrote us to say in effect that it would be played in the west this summer or not at all."

The OLA felt staging the series again would be too costly and no sponsor could be found. OLA teams wouldn't consider it.

The western teams, much stronger than their eastern counterparts, felt it would help stimulate interest in lacrosse in the east.

"The western teams feel the eastern clubs don't put out their best lacrosse while out there," said Johnson.

He says the CLA will help the OLA pick up as many as five replacements for this year's finals.

WILL SCOUT TEAMS

CLA officials will scout eastern teams and "try to get a complete forward line from another club or maybe a full starting five," said Johnson.

In the past, Mann Cup finalists were not allowed replacements for strengthening purposes, but could pick up three players apiece in event of illness or injury.

The move to strengthen the east was felt necessary because of New Westminster's easy win in four straight games in the best-of-seven series last year against Brampton Ramblers.

Date and site of the finals has not been determined.

Ferguson Leads In Scoring Race

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Ferguson of Nanaimo took over the scoring leadership of the Inter-City Lacrosse League Tuesday night but his team went down to a 13-10 defeat at the hands of league-leading Vancouver before 500 fans.

Ferguson scored two goals and had three assists to run his point total to 43, one more than former leader Cliff Sepka of New Westminster.

Sparked by Tommy McVie, the Nanaimo club—which suffered its tenth defeat in 12 games—showed vast improvement over the past. But it still could not best Vancouver, which has 10 wins in 13 starts.

Doug Carter, L. Chisholm, Ron Bodner and Sid Warwick each scored twice for Vancouver. Fred Usselman, Bob Babcock, Bob Marsh, Gord Gimple, and John Surinak got singles.

McVie scored three times for Nanaimo. Ferguson, Terry Davis and Al Matson scored twice and Les Glover once.

Sepka has a chance to regain the leadership when New Westminster meets Victoria Thursday and Friday.

Imps Score Seventh Win

There was no doubt about it Tuesday as the Imps, getting pitching—and plate power, hammered McLarens 11-5 for their seventh win in eight starts.

Barry Jackson's five-hit chore was backed by a three-run homer from Darrel Lorimer and Bob Sorenson's two-run clout.

Dodd on Spot To Power A's

In sport, good timing is essential.

John Dodd had it Tuesday evening.

Thanks to Dodd's good timing, IAA Athletics have climbed to the top of the pile in the Senior Amateur Baseball League, clipping Builders 13-4 at Royal Athletic Park.

Dodd, Athletics' centrefielder, had his timing down pat to crack out two doubles and a single. More important, however, was the fact that the hits came when they counted—with men on base. Dodd drove in seven runs.

AMBITIOUS PLAN

International Play Beckons Schoolboys

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association is considering a plan to form a provincial school-age team to compete internationally by 1965.

The all-star squad of boys 15 and under would be composed of players from all parts of the province. The team would go to Europe, either for the European schoolboy championships or for exhibition games in Great Britain and on the continent.

Association secretary Russ Bagan said officials currently are investigating the plan's feasibility. If difficulties can be surmounted and the scheme approved by the Canadian Soccer Football Association, a selection committee will start choosing prospects next season.

Bagan said a touring teenage all-star team would develop players to represent Canada in international competitions such as the world cup and the Olympic and Pan American games.

"We realize this scheme entails a lot of financial problems," he said. "If they can be solved, we'll go ahead."

Rowing, Bowling Off Games Slate

MONTREAL (CP) — Jack Davies of Montreal has been elected president of the British Empire and Commonwealth Association of Canada.

He confirmed that rowing and lawn bowling has been dropped from the 1966 games, scheduled for Kingston, Jamaica, and that they will be replaced by shooting and badminton.

Davies said rowing and bowling will not be held because of lack of suitable racing waters and proper greens.

WBA Removes Ortiz' Title

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The World Boxing Association has withdrawn recognition of lightweight champion Carlot Ortiz of New York and Puerto Rico because of his failure to meet the No. 1 challenger as ordered, lawyer Anthony Felice announced Tuesday.

Ortiz failed to meet Kenny Lane, Muskegon, Mich., by June 3, as ordered by the association's championship regulations committee, Felice said, and the fight has not been arranged or even acknowledged.

Watershed Again Open to Hunters

Deer hunters, who conducted themselves "without incident" last year, are getting another chance to hunt in the Greater Victoria watershed.

This season hunters will have double the time and more than twice the area to cover as the result of a decision announced Tuesday by the water board.

Commissioner Ron Upward said a total of 12,000 acres in the Goldstream-Niagara watershed will be open. Last year, only 5,000 acres were opened to hunters. As well, the watershed will be open for six four-day weekends as compared to three weekends last year.

There is one notable change in procedure Upward said. A $5 charge will be levied against each hunter.

The charge is designed to defray costs of health tests—a must for anyone entering watershed property — and of hiring a guard at the gate. The charge, Upward said, will discourage anybody from entering the watershed for reasons other than hunting.

In providing limited access, the board hopes hunters will thin out the deer population that has been causing serious damage to the water district's reforestation program. Last year, hunters claimed 57 deer from the watershed.

Hunting dates will be set later.

City Archers Eyeing Trip To Helsinki

Members of Victoria Bowmen Club, the quartet competed last weekend in the second elimination shoot to determine the Canadian team which will attend the world archery championships at Helsinki July 23-28. Participating bowmen were Frank Jones, Canadian champion; Bob Blades, Bob Akins and Lil Jones. Results should be known next week.

In the club's bi-monthly tournament Ian Thain (641) and Lil Jones (587) led their respective divisions. Behind Thain came Blades, 628; Fred Usher, 626; Bill Carnes, 609; Bob Copeman, 597; and, Jamie Cameron, 436. In women's competition, scores were: Betty Thain, 582; Ada Akins, 533; Bess Copeman, 531; and, Doris Usher, 289.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Tommy Gunovich, 11, Cleveland, Ohio, for his question:

Who Discovered Insulin?

In 1920, the lingering disease known as diabetes mellitus claimed thousands of lives around the world. And so it had been for centuries. A patient with this disease wasted away, and no doctor could save him. His body was unable to convert sugar into energy, and the unused sugar passed out as waste through the kidneys.

In the 1800s, scientists were probing the role of the pancreas in the digestive process. This pinkish - yellow gland, shaped like a six or eight-inch cucumber, lies crosswise at the back of the stomach. In 1869, Paul Langerhans of Germany found small islands of glandular tissue in the pancreas. In 1890, Dr. Naunyn, also of Germany, found that diabetes is a disease of the islands of Langerhans in the pancreas.

Medical scientists soon learned that these glandular islands produce a hormone which the body needs to convert sugar into energy. But no one could capture this hormone. Then, in 1921, a young doctor of London, Ontario, thought he knew how. It was summertime, and he asked permission to test his idea in a laboratory at the University of Toronto.

He was Frederick Grant Banting, age 30, and his co-worker was Charles Herbert Best, a 22-year-old medical student from Maine. Dr. J. J. Macleod of the university worked with them on their project, and another co-worker was James Bertram Collip. Banting's idea was successful, and the hormone which they named insulin was isolated from the pancreas of a dog.

Mastered Old-Age Killer

In 1923, when Banting and Macleod were awarded the Nobel prize for medicine, insulin from cattle was being produced in quantities. Banting shared his honors with young Charles Best, and Macleod shared his honors with their co-worker, James Collip. Working together, these men mastered an age-old killer, and their work shed new light on the role of the pancreas in the digestive system.

Some reference books give Banting, others give Banting and Best as the discoverers of insulin. But the four scientists themselves felt that the job was done by teamwork. They also know that many experts in the past had gathered scraps of information about the pancreas and that their work would have been impossible without this basic information.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Michael Guista, age nine, of Exeter, Calif., for his question:

How does the heart get rid of its wastes?

The heart has its own blood vessels which connect with the blood stream of the body. Blood vessels carry oxygen to the heart from the lungs and dissolved food from the digestive system. These fuels are changed into energy to keep the muscles of the heart pumping day and night. When the fuels are changed into energy, carbon dioxide and other waste chemicals are left over.

Blood vessels carry waste carbon dioxide from the heart to the lungs, and the lungs breathe it out into the air. Other waste chemicals from the heart enter the blood stream. They are carried to the kidneys and to other organs which get rid of the body's waste materials.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK — Keefe Brasselle rushed along B'way in the rain—all abeam about becoming Garry Moore's summer CBS TV replacement starting June 25—and especially happy about his first guest star, Carol Channing.

"She broke the ice for me on guests," Keefe said. "Now we've got Zsa Zsa, Barbara Streisand, Tammy Grimes, Teresa Brewer . . . suddenly everybody wants to do the show."

Keefe's "regular family" in his variety format will include beautiful Noele Adam, Ann B. Davis, alias "Schultzie," and Rocky Graziano.

Zsa Zsa was Zsa Zsa in a taping the other day. At one point when Keefe, who's the star, after all, was rehearsing a song in the corner, Zsa shrilled, "Dolling, I myst have absolute kviet vile I am doing my number!" Sitting in Lindy's, Keefe smiled when a waiter asked—the former Elyria, O., boy who got famous in an Eddie Cantor movie—for an autograph.

"This is like old times, having somebody asking for my autograph. Hasn't happened to me in quite a while," he said. "The last time I was on regularly was, gee, 3 years ago, when I replaced George DeWitt on 'Be Our Guest.' It's just a summer replacement . . . but at least I'm up at bat again."

Mamie Van Doren—just before whipping over to Valley Forge, Pa., to play "Silk Stockings" opined to me about her fiance Bo Belinsky. "Poor Bo. He talked to the Los Angeles brass about his suspension and they told him to get rid of me. He wouldn't do it. We are going to get married definitely. He'll be in town—he said he couldn't hold out without me for more than two weeks."

Rhonda Fleming has taken possession of Glenn Ford . . . Tailor Irving Heller, also booker for the Waldemere, buttonholed Red Buttons and sewed him up for five appearances . . . Dick Gregory's express agent, Tim Boxer, sued him for $250,000 in Chicago . . . Hans Hanson, former operator of once-famous Hanson's Drug Store, is now day mgr. at Jack Miller's Ham & Eggs on B'way. A switch—Miller used to work for Hanson . . . Ursula Andress, whose brief bikini is startling in "Dr. No," is being tagged "Miss Undress." Ursula, wife of John Derek, goes into Frank Sinatra's film, "Four From Texas."

Comedian singer Bob King excited everybody about his talent at the Tony Bennett Town & Country opening. One line! "Psychiatrists charge $25 an hour, everybody goes, they say it does wonders. Let's be honest: If you'd lie down an hour a day, you'd feel better, too."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . . Mae West's Santa Monica pad is for sale, at a mere $250,000 . . . Producer George Abbott will title his memoirs simply "Mr. Abbott" . . . Susan Strasberg, at the Hob Nob with actor Harry Millard, said she'd rather work at Actors Studio at low dough than do TV for large loot . . . Ezio Pinza's widow will sell her Connecticut home, move the family to California . . . A major network's trying to buy a book publishing company . . . Young Judy Rice is an "apprentice actress" in "Dream Girl" in Philadelphia's Theatre-in-the-Park; her father, Elmer Rice, wrote the show, her mother, Betty Field, starred in it on B'way.

Eva Marie Saint will turn redhead for her next, "Bunny Lake Is Missing," and wants to fly hair stylist George Masters in from N.Y. to do the honors . . . A one-time child star is being tailed by narcotics detectives in the east.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A college alumnus is sometimes a fellow who once graduated from a school he could never get into today.—Art Moger, Boston.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The trouble with Hollywood is that they're shooting too many B-pictures and not enough of their directors."—Groucho Marx.

EARL'S PEARLS: Suburbia is a place where parents spend $5,000 for a school bus so the kids won't have to walk to the new $100,000 gymnasium to get some exercise.

St. Joseph's Marks Up Busiest Year

Last year was the busiest in St. Joseph Hospital's 86-year history, the annual report said Tuesday.

A total of 14,359 patients, up 355 from 1961, spent an average 10.2 days in the hospital.

The emergency ward handled 14,462 cases, an increase of 1,638, and an even bigger jump is expected this year, the report said.

The report showed a surplus of $22,742 left after expenditures of $3,483,062 were made, including a payroll of $2,623,385.

CIRCUS DRAWS GASPS FROM CHILDREN

. . . And Many an Awe-Struck Adult

By RON SUDLOW

Big top entertainment bounced, danced, flipped and juggled under Memorial Arena's barrel-topped roof Tuesday as Rudy Bros. Shrine Circus presented the first two of four scheduled performances before 5,600 persons.

Most of them were children but there was many an awe-struck adult in the crowd.

Leading off the 25 fast-paced acts in the two hour, 30-minute show was Capt. William Horne and a mixed group of jungle cats.

Capt. Horne put his animals through their paces by controlling them with voice and hand signals. Throughout his performance he carried no gun, whip or chair.

Perhaps the best balancing act was an exhibition given on a swinging trapeze by Miguel Ramarez. Performing without a net, he knelt on the bar and picked up a handkerchief with his teeth, without using his hands for support, while the trapeze was in motion.

SWING STAGE

Most electrifying of the acts is the Cosmos, a high-wire act on a motorcycle which has a swing stage attached underneath. Acrobatics are performed on the swing stage as the cycle roars along two wires stretched from north to south about 10 feet frim the top of the arena.

The audience seemed almost too tense to applaud until the act was completed.

CROWD GASPS

The human-like antics of Hansi, who enjoys the occasional cigarette between performances, brought gasps of amazement from spectators as he juggled, balanced and hot-rodded around the ring on his motorbike.

An additional thrill was provided at the conclusion of the Lopez Bros.' return trapeze act when half the posts supporting the protective net gave way when a member of the trio dropped into it from his lofty perch.

Injury could have resulted had it not been a controlled plunge.

SPENT $18,000

"Last year, we used $18,000 to transport parents and children to the hospital. Twenty-five per cent of the children in the Portland hospital come from B.C.," circus co-chairman Don Mathison told the Times.

Medals Cast Honoring New Trans-Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — A medal commemorating the official opening of the Trans-Canada Highway by John Diefenbaker last year at Rogers Pass, B.C., now is available to the public.

One face of the medal shows a shield with a maple leaf and bearing the words Trans-Canada Highway in English and French. The other side has a wreath of laurels and an inscription reading: "To commemorate the official opening, Trans-Canada Highway, 1962."

The medal is being produced by Canadian Artistic Dies of Sherbrooke, Que. Twenty-five gold medals were made for sale at $180 each, 500 silver medals at $12 each and 1,000 bronze at $1 each.

She walked into his office and POW! Gossip columnist Mike Connolly was slugged by actress Shirley MacLaine Monday at Hollywood. "Why do you print untrue things about me? As a woman this is my only defence," she said. He said she aimed at his head, hit shoulder.

CBC Captures Awards For Radio and TV Shows

VANCOUVER—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has won 10 Ohio awards — five for television programs and five for radio programs—for 1963.

Of this number, seven were top awards and three were special commendations.

For television, awards were received for "Camera Canada," "The Nature of Things" and "National School Telecasts" programs. Radio awards were for programs from "School Broadcasts," "Aspects of Life," "Issues in Modern Canada," and "Summer Fallow."

Winners were announced in Columbus, Ohio, at the 27th annual American exhibition of educational radio and television programs, sponsored by the institute for education by radio-television, Ohio State University.

The Ohio awards are the only competition open in all categories to all English-language broadcasters in North America.

Polio Cases Take Plunge

OTTAWA (CP) — A dramatic plunge in the number of polio cases has health authorities hoping this year will be the best on record, it was learned Tuesday.

From the beginning of 1963 until May 25, there was only one case in all of Canada. This compares with 48 cases in the same period last year.

"There could still be a monstrous outbreak," warned one offical. He suggested cool weather may have helped keep the disease in check.

$100-Seat Premiere Of Cleopatra Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Cleopatra," the most costly movie ever made, will barge onto Broadway tonight for a $100-a-ticket world premiere that is expected to attract a New Year's Eve size mob to Times Square.

Two tickets to 20th Century-Fox's $37 million epic were being held for Elizabeth (Cleo) Taylor and Richard (Mark Antony) Burton, romantic stars of the film on-screen and off. But latest reports said they will remain together in London where Burton is making a new movie.

"That's good," said a police spokesman. "We'd have to declare martial law if those two showed up."

Neither Miss Taylor nor Burton has seen the completed master print of "Cleopatra," whose final editing was completed only last week—nearly three years after filming began. Only writer-director Joseph L. Mankiewicz and a half-dozen others have viewed the final version in its four-hour, 11-minute entirety, a half hour longer than "Gone With the Wind."

Even though Rex (Caesar) Harrison will be the only star in attendance, a record Broadway opening crowd was expected.

Greatest present use for the "hovercraft" appears to be transportation of people and equipment in the trackless north, according to B.C. Toll Ferries general manager Monty Aldous.

Mr. Aldous told the harbor and transportation group of the Chamber of Commerce Monday that a hovercraft ferry is at least five to 10 years away on this coast. Chief drawback is its lack of ability to carry large truck trailers.

Mainland Doctor Suspended In Goofball Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Physician Samuel William Baker has been suspended from practising for six months for infamous and unprofessional conduct.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons said it acted after a committee composed of three doctors and a County Court judge investigated charges related to the prescribing of barbiturates by Baker.

Aug. 1, 1962, a city newspaperman reported he received six barbiturate capsules from Dr. Baker. The reporter said he was not given a physical examination or asked any questions about his medical background.

The reporter was investigating trafficking in goofballs, barbiturates taken with alcohol to produce a light-headed effect. The goofballs are taken as a substitute for the more-powerful heroin.

OCEAN EMPORIUM OPEN TO PUBLIC FRIDAY MORNING

Fishbowl: Where Big Ones Don't Get Away

By MONTE ROBERTS

Rumors that something fishy is going on in Oak Bay are true.

The locale for these fishy happenings is a 96-foot, 500-ton steel contraption which resembles a barge with a ship's superstructure, is officially named Undersea Garden, and is affectionately known to many Oak Bay natives as Charlie White's ocean emporium.

Call it what you will, the contraption well earns the adjective fantastic.

It has been said scores of times that Charlie White's approach to making a display of marine life available to the public is a unique one, but it takes a visit to the Undersea Garden to prove it.

What Mr. White has done is simple in concept, complicated in execution; he has made it possible for people to go to the fish in comfort and safety, while the fish are (presumably) contented in their natural habitat.

The Undersea Garden is moored at the Oak Bay Marina. It was built by Victoria Machinery Depot to Mr. White's design, and is essentially an aquarium in reverse; the people watching the fish are inside, looking out; the fish watching the people are outside, looking in.

Outside the thick windows, underwater lights illuminate a series of set-pieces with living actors gliding silently through, in surroundings which appear completely natural.

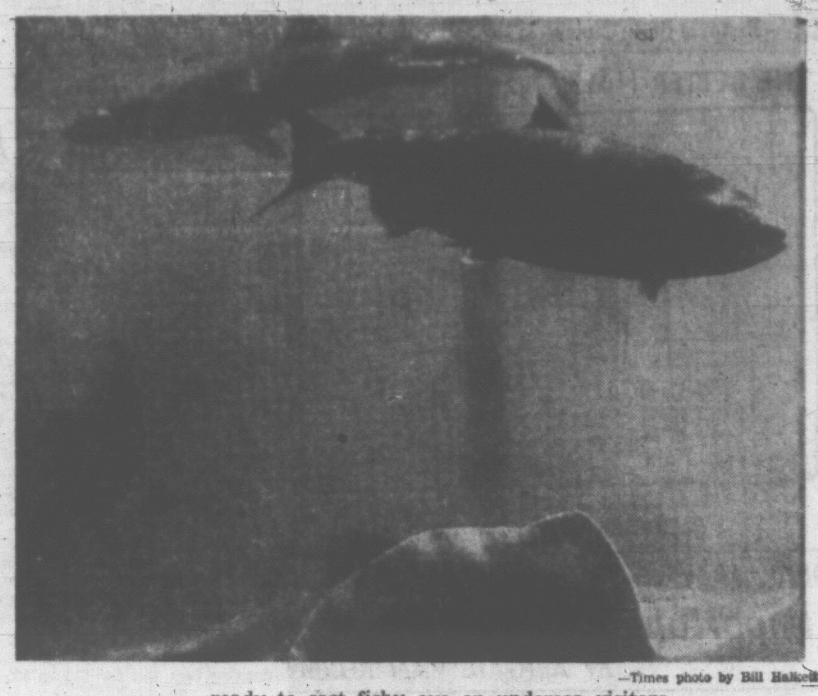

The finny actors move freely around the viewing chamber but are prevented from departing for parts unknown by a wire mesh fence. The fence has been artfully camouflaged to blend with nature, and to form the backdrop of the well-lit underwater stage.

There are dozens of species of fish, all of them taken from waters adjacent to Vancouver Island, and installed around the viewing chamber by skindivers. There are fish everybody knows about: perch, salmon, the dogfish who is really a shark, the ratfish who is too ugly to describe.

There are also rarely-seen fish; sturgeon caught off the West Coast; octopus, common to these waters but seldom seen in action by those who don't have Scuba gear; and a fearsome couple of wolf eels, sometimes known as king of the salmon because the salmon are so frightened of them.

I found my visit to the Undersea Garden a fascinating experience. The official opening will be Thursday evening and the enterprise is open to the public Friday morning.

I have a feeling Charlie White's ocean emporium is going to be a winner.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1963—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Now is the time of the big spring salmon, when the boatman may find himself ending his fight with a lunker under the risen moon, and the angler who prowls the rock points with spinning gear keeps an eye cocked for a flurry of bait fish and the swirl of a tail rather wider than his two hands.

He is a dour and unpredictable fish, this river-spawning sea feeder with the streamlined shape of a trout, and a heft that has been known to exceed 125 pounds. His preferred foraging hours are grey dawn and evening dimmity; but often enough, some startled troller has heard his reel cut loose with a sustained war-cry under the full blaze of noon.

That happened to me last off the hulks at Oyster Bay. I was fishing small, with a size-three Tom Mack and an ounce of lead, not looking for trouble.

Then 60 feet astern came the skittering flight of herring minnows, the surface eddy to speak of underwater massacre, and before I could dip oars again, a thundering strike.

He was a big fish. He ran me out and broke me off without once showing himself. But I like to think he was the authentic forty-pounder I've never yet landed.

★ ★ ★

Coho fishing is brisker sport, especially with fly and spinner trolled fast on a short line. But that's a sunshine game, a contest with a lightweight who can be depended on to show himself in a burst of aerial acrobatics.

Not so with your heavy spring salmon. That fellow can, and often does stage a tremendous run if tagged on light gear, but his typical fight is a deep and dogged slugging-match.

You pump the rod, grind the reel, and gain a few feet of line. The spring shakes his head, sets tail and fins, and with a power that will smash tackle if snubbed, claims your painfully-recovered footage . . . plus an extra couple of fathoms to teach you respect for his breed.

This stubborn give-and-take may last 30 minutes, but with shadows deepening, wrists aching, and tide edging you in toward a kelp reef, it can seem hours. It has a quality of excitement almost sinister; as if you waited for one of Caddy's coils to break surface.

What finally does emerge is a wedge-shaped dorsal fin, a tail lobe, and as you heave once more, a dark-spotted green back.

If time and tide allow, it's safest to play your spring salmon till he rolls a bronze-and-silver side. The hasty gaff stroke or scoop with a landing net loses many a good fish.

It seems to me that the sportsman can justify his life-taking only if he uses his quarry well—and by this, I don't mean distributing a limit catch of uncleaned fish among reluctant friends.

On the rare occasion when we bring home a spring salmon, we generally celebrate with a barbecue. Each side yields a king-sized fillet; or you can remove the good red flesh in a single section; to be clamped in a frame of green saplings and propped over a beach fire-pit stoked with bark chunks till its stones are all but incandescent.

Basted with butter and lemon juice and devoured on an island beach or in a suburban backyard, that's fish as the gods meant it to be.

Even with no other garnish than a splash of sea water, salmon barbecued thoroughly and slowly over a fir-bark fire provides better eating than erring mankind deserves.

In fact, take him any way you like, he's a very fine fellow, this spring salmon. I only hope that present efforts to save him and his lesser cousins for posterity aren't too little and too late.

'I Never Saw Him' —Driver

An inquest opened today into the death in hospital of an elderly man nearly three weeks after he was knocked down by a car in Esquimalt May 17.

Richard Scudder, 84, who lived at the Salvation Army Matson Lodge, was in collision with a taxi driven by Raymond Oulette, 35 Battleford, at the intersection of Esquimalt Road and Head Street. He died June 5.

The accident occurred, it was testified today, when the deceased stepped off the south curb into the east pedestrian crosswalk at the intersection.

Transferred to Veterans' Hospital 24 hours after being taken to St. Joseph's, he was listed as in "good" condition only two days before he died, doctors said.

Dr. Ross McNeely, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said cause of death was a blood clot from the pelvis injury which reached the lung.

More Debate On Blanshard

Provincial housing commissioner J. E. Brown, noting council has blown hot and cold on the subject, today asked what the present status of the proposal is.

Mr. Brown today wrote the provincial government had given its approval in principle to the project.

"However, I understand your council have decided not to proceed with this scheme at this time," he said.

"I would appreciate it if you would advise me of the status of the scheme so I could inform" the federal government.

SUBSIDY EFFECT

Good Winter, Bad Summer Says Builder

A house-building vacuum between now and the start of $500 per house federal incentive payments this fall was predicted today by a Victoria contractor.

William Tytler, of William Tytler Construction Co., Ltd., said prospective builders would wait for the $500 subsidy to start before commencing new houses.

"We're going to have the biggest winter (for house building) on record and the lousiest summer," he said.

100 JOBLESS

"It doesn't make sense to me," he added, noting there are already 100 union carpenters out of work in this area.

He said the government should have withheld announcement of the payments until fall.

Appeal Made For Student Berry Pickers

An appeal to some 500 students to turn out Friday for strawberry picking was made today by the National Employment Service office.

The appeal follows reports from growers that berries have started to rot on the ground because of the shortage of some 400 pickers to harvest the crop.

The students, those who are recommended and don't have to take examinations, are free Thursday.

George Bevis, manager of the NES office, said today he has streamlined the procedure for employing students as farm help.

"They don't have to come down to the NES office to register," he said. "All they have to do is to report at the Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus depot Friday at 7:30 a.m."

He said they would be employed as pickers and transported immediately to various farms.

A picker earns 60 cents a crate, according to H. Bickford, manager of the Saanich Fruit Growers Association.

He said this averaged out to about $5 to $8 a day—depending on the picker's ability and the yield per acre.

Even Spread Asked On Civic Loan Fund

Mayor R. B. Wilson today called for federal government assurance that the new $400,000,00 civic loan fund will be spread evenly across the country.

On a proportionate basis, the Greater Victoria area could expect to obtain between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 of the loan fund for capital works.

The city itself would qualify for a $1,000,000 federal loan on a population basis.

But if the money is parcelled out on a first-come first-served basis the smaller communities like Greater Victoria might find nothing was left in the fund for them, Mayor Wilson said.

"One or two big cities could move in and take up practically all of the fund if there isn't some safeguard to protect the smaller municipalities by ensuring the fund is spread evenly across the country," he pointed out.

He welcomed the announcement in Parliament that one-quarter of the loans would be written off by Ottawa if the projects involved were completed by March of 1966.

For Victoria, if a per capita system is used, this would mean it could obtain a loan of $1,000,000 for a capital project and only have to repay $750,000 at interest rates comparable to those obtained by the federal government — usually much lower than civic interest rates.

STIMULANT

"That would certainly stimulate needed civic construction," said the mayor.

"But I'm sure the municipalities will be disappointed that they must raise one-third of the cost of these projects independently. It's difficult to see the reason why they can't finance all of it through the fund."

He added that Victoria council will have to decide which of several proposed civic projects should be financed through the fund, obtain provincial approval and then ratepayer approval before it could apply to Ottawa for the money.

That would take months and unless an allocation system is set up, the fund might be empty by the time smaller cities like Victoria made their applications.

Driver Jailed After Police Untangle Ruse

A driver who tried to hoodwink police about an accident and had another accident while doing so was sentenced to a total of 37 days' jail by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court today.

Smith has been previously convicted three times for driving while under suspension and for careless driving.

FROM PARTY

Police evidence showed that Smith left a party early on the morning of May 5 and, when turning from Cook on to Princess, he collided with two parked cars.

He left the scene and went back to the party from where he telephoned police to say his vehicle had been stolen. He then went to move his car away from the scene of the party. In the process he hit a stop sign and a fence as he drove north on Chambers.

The magistrate imposed a sentence of seven days on the first charge or careless driving and 10 days for the second. He sentenced Smith to 20 days for failing to remain. The sentences will be served consecutively.

Musicians Propose More Concerts At Beacon Hill

The past two years, the union and City Hall have each chipped in $1,000 to pay for the concert series, supplemented by free navy band concerts and other performances.

This year the union proposed a schedule of nine concerts—three each with large bands, orchestras and variety programs costing a total of $4,195.

It offered to finance $2,195 itself if the city increased its grant to $2,000.

Recognition Doubtful For SIU Ferry Union

The Seafarers' International Union has launched its campaign to sign up all B.C. government ferry employees, but there were doubts today the government will recognize them.

Thirty ferry crewmen signed up for a new division of the SIU, to be called the B.C. Water Services Association, at a Vancouver meeting Tuesday night.

SIU port agent Rod Heinekey said they will first apply for a charter from the SIU of Canada executive then seek bargaining rights from the B.C. government.

SLIM CHANCE

But their chances appear slim.

"There will be no certification," declared an offical of the labor department.

"If there is any recognition by the government, it will only be voluntary."

He explained that the government at present deals only with the B.C. Government Employees' Association. This is "a working arrangement," not recognition of bargaining rights.

SKEPTICAL

BCGEA spokesman A. R. Kemp said the association represents a majority of ferry employees.

He was skeptical of the SIU's success.

"To our knowledge they have made no inroads on our membership," he said. "And we've certainly run into a lot of anti-SIU feeling."

He said he doubted the government would recognize the SIU.

Mr. Heinekey was quite confident, however.

"These people want representation from a union—something they can govern and control themselves without being under the influence of a bunch of office workers."

Claiming the SIU has more than 300 members among ferry employees who formerly worked for the Black Ball line, Mr. Heinekey said his goal is 100 per cent membership.

Quake Centred 30 Miles From City

Centre of an earthquake which shook Vancouver Island homes Tuesday night was probably under the sea about 30 miles northeast of Victoria, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain reported today.

It started at 10:15 p.m. and lasted about one minute.

"It was only a minor earthquake—similar to one we had here last fall—but the observatory was flooded with phone calls until late Tuesday night," said Seismologist William Milne.

DISHES SHAKE

No damage was reported, but dishes rattled and pictures tilted on walls as far north as Brentwood Bay and Colwood.

Many Victoria residents called the police and one man living on Newton Street said he thought his oil furnace had exploded.

One rumor was that an oil refinery had blown up and some inquired if the navy was firing guns in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Many thought the rumble was that of high-flying jet bombers.

Ask The Times

Q. Where were the two pohutukawa trees planted by the captain of HMNZS Royalist on its visit last summer. How are they doing?? U.O.

A. Only one of the trees was officially planted by Captain J. O'C. Ross and J. S. Reid, New Zealand high commissioner to Canada, on the third lawn at Government House. The other is still sitting in a tub.

The planted tree is doing very well. It has increased in thickness but is still only about two feet tall. The tree is being gradually climatized by spending winters in a protective lath house.

When arrested two hours later Spill told a constable he "had an urge to steal some money and go to Seattle." The money has been returned.

Spill was remanded to June 20 for probation report and sentence.

HE'S GOING BACK TO AFRICAN WILDS

Doctor Succumbs to 'Jungle Fever'

By IAIN HUNTER

A doctor who has been practising here for 2½ years today is leaving the comforts of Victoria to establish a hospital in the jungle of a turbulent African republic.

Dr. J. A. Hay will go to Ruanda in central Africa as a medical missionary. He will establish a medical centre and nursing school under auspices of the Seventh Day Adventists Mission, on the shores of Lake Kivu.

This will not be the first time Manitoba-born Dr. Hay has lived in Africa. Already he has been associated with missions in Bechuanaland and Nyasaland.

But he admits it is hard to leave Victoria.

"For the sake of my children's education I am determined to come back here finally," he said.

But while he and his wife Gertrude are serving in Ruanda, his two girls, 14 and 10, and two boys, 12 and 5, will be sent to a boarding school in Cape Town.

The hospital will be set up in buildings left behind by former Belgian settlers in the UN trusteeship of Ruanda-Urundi. In association with another medical missionary from California, Dr. Hay will transport medical supplies to set up the centre, the 12th in a chain administered by his church.

For the past year, in preparation for his new mission, the doctor has been learning how to fly a plane, necessary for him to visit all of his 1,000,000 prospective patients.

At the same time his wife, a graduate of St. Joseph's nursing school, has been taking a quick course in motor mechanics.

Both have acquired a smattering of French.

Dr. Hay said there are few white people left in the country since the Belgians fled before independence was granted the republic some 10 months ago.

DR. J. A. HAY
. . . hard to leave

Dr. Hay already has made the acquaintance of the people with whom he will be dealing.

He has met members of the seven-foot Watusi tribe and the pigmies — some three-foot-six tall — who inhabit the country.

Medical practice there will be rather different than it was in Victoria, he admits.

"They have different codes of ethics and morals, and there will be a language barrier," he said.

"We will be using our medicines and techniques. But they are a primitive people with a native mentality, and still use witchcraft," he added.

"Out there our practice of medicine will have to be pretty successful."

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

DEAR ABBY . . .

Importance of Friendship!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: If I'm wrong, please tell me and I'll keep quiet. Last year I attended seven weddings, nine bridal showers, two ten-year wedding celebrations, one 25th-wedding celebration, two housewarming parties, and six baby showers. Please don't think I'm stingy, but I've been married 14 years, have had 5 babies and I never gave any sort of party where a gift was expected. We moved into a new home, too, and have entertained for our wedding anniversaries, but we invited only our immediate family. Why can't people keep THEIR celebrations to themselves?

NO GIMMICKS

DEAR NO: I GUESS THEY JUST CAN'T RESIST SHARING EVERYTHING WITH FRIENDS.

SINCERELY

Sincerely, C. H.

DEAR C. H.: Thank you. He's probably changed his name to "Wolfe" by now. And the woods are full of 'em.

DEAR ABBY: I don't suppose this will be news to the people of Texas, but when I read your column on unusual surnames I was reminded of the Texas governor whose name was HOGG. He named his two daughters URA HOGG and IMA HOGG.

CLARENCE F. M.

DEAR CLARENCE: I know you aren't feeding me a line because no less than 500 readers included those names in their odd name round-up.

DEAR ABBY: Our little grandson, who is six years old, lost three teeth last week, so we have been busy playing "Good Fairy." (The child puts the tooth under his pillow at night, and during the night the "Good Fairy" takes the tooth and leaves a dime.)

Well, if "Ma," who is annoyed because her husband leaves his "choppers" grinning at her from the top of the dresser, wants to play a cute trick on "Pa," she should take his "choppers" and leave $3.20 in dimes in their place. She should tell him that the "Good Fairy" thought he didn't need them any more and took them. Then when the joke is over she should present them to him in a jeweled plastic box with a lid on it available in any five-and-dime.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here's a Few Conveniences To Include When Travelling

When travelling, small conveniences can make the trip so much more pleasant. Give some thought to these little comforts, aids and pleasures.

Lowman

So many people are accustomed to speedy airplane trips and helpful stewardesses that a long train or bus trip is apt to find them unprepared. If you are planning an overnight (or longer) train, bus or auto trip, here are a few suggestions for your tote bag.

1. A box of tissues, besides obvious uses, is good for taking off make-up, mopping up spills, wiping dust off shoes and purse, wrapping around the head of a wet toothbrush, etc.

2. Several packets of those aluminum-wrapped "wet" tissues — to rid you of sticky or dirty hands when it is impossible to get to a sink.

3. Some candy bars, apples or cookies — you can get terribly hungry late at night just because you know there is no place to get a snack.

4. A small can of hair spray — overnight trips, either sitting up or lying down, will muss your fresh hairdo.

5. A paper pad and pen or pencil — a long train or bus trip gives you plenty of time to catch up on your correspondence, or you may want to jot down your impressions of a very scenic route or some experiences you had to help you re-enjoy the trip later on.

6. An extra sweater — even in summer it gets cold at night on trains and buses travelling through mountains. On air-conditioned Pullman cars you may often welcome the sweater. In a bus seat, a coat may be cumbersome.

7. Some safety pins and a threaded needle — in case of popped buttons, a suddenly split dress seam, broken garter, or to pin your earrings or bracelet to the lining of your bag so you can find them easily in the morning.

8. Extra cigarettes and matches if you smoke—again, for the late hours when your fellow passengers may be sleeping and you can neither borrow nor buy.

9. Extra pairs of stockings and white gloves, depending on the length of your trip and feasibility of washing things out — possible in a train compartment, but not in a coach or on a bus.

10. A good book, thrown into your bag in advance — you might be late getting aboard and not have time to buy reading matter.

11. A small jar of dehydrated citrus drink — if you are travelling by Pullman and just can't make it to the diner in the morning without something to wake you up. A little of this mixed with water will help you face the world.

12. A tiny transistor radio with ear plug will work on bus or train and relieve tedium. Also useful drug items: aspirin and eyewash (stations and depots can be very dusty).

Of course, your overnight bag will contain toothbrush, comb and brush, cosmetics, slippers, and, on Pullman cars, nightclothes and robe. The dozen extras mentioned, which take little room, are the often forgotten things which will make your trip more pleasant if you have them just when you need them.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Specialty of This Shop— Wool Knits Made to Order

By PENNY SAVER

Perhaps you read the article in the Weekend Magazine section of the Times two weeks ago which told about the woman in Vancouver who has developed a prosperous business making hand-knit clothes. Maybe you were intrigued but couldn't see yourself knitting anything well enough to wear? As usual Penny saves the day if not the pennies!

Victoria, too, has a woman who will knit things to your specifications. She also employs professional knitters to aid her so that no item takes much longer than two weeks to complete.

Prices of course depend on style of garment and kind of wool used. Store does make a coat at $49.95, which is displayed in two different styles that they have on hand! A black one in no-button style and a green one knit from a knubby wool which makes the finished product look like tweed. These are fully lined. For your own order, you may request any changes in pockets or collar that you wish.

Another sample on view is a simple shift dress which they make either with or without lined jacket. Plain dress is $25; with jacket and trim of various kind, it is usually about $45.

Something to think about for the winter months are curling sweaters with tams to match which they do in fairisle knitting style. These are about $30 or $35.

For summer there are Chanel jackets to wear with summer dresses that sell for $15 to $25, lined or unlined.

The do-it-yourselfer will find some different supplies in this shop, too. They have a stock of lovely French mohair in mauve, pink, dusky rose, green, beige and white. It knits into delicate lacy sweaters and is $1.29 for 1½-ounce ball.

Unusual, too, is the knitting ribbon which they will order for you. It comes in a variety of colors and can be used for cocktail dresses. It is $2.25 a spool and dress takes a fair amount of them (around 14) but result is something very unique.

Whether wearing wool or working with it is your wish, wander into this shop after ringing Penny at 382-3131 to find out where it is.

Give a lift to ordinary rice pudding by spooning over it a hot prune syrup made by cooking prune juice with a little cornstarch. One teaspoon cornstarch to a cup of prune juice is a good proportion.

With women golfers the trend is towards Bermuda—Bermuda shorts that is! They are being sported in every color and material by most of 105 competitors in the British Columbia Ladies' Close championship being held at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, Monday to Friday this week. One of the few exceptions, Tuesday was Gail Bigsby, Victoria, left, the youngest junior, who chose sky blue "stretchies". With her is Mrs. P. M. Reynolds, Vancouver.

With conventional "shorts" outlawed for use by women golfers on public courses, the Bermuda short has taken over top place on the popularity poll with the tenacity of a terrier. Mrs. William Moldowan, Vancouver, left, models her bright blue version that has a handy pouch pocket tucked on her belt at back for score card, spare balls and other necessities. Heartily approving the feminine fashion is, left to right, Mrs. J. S. T. Fall, Cowichan; Mrs. J. Smyth, Vancouver; Mrs. J. H. Todd, Victoria city champion and captain of the Canadian team; Miss Marilyn Palmer, Kamloops; Mrs. D. Naysmith, Victoria; Mrs. Ross Patrick, Vancouver, and Miss Gayle Hitchens, defending champion from North Vancouver.

Mrs. W. R. McArthur, Vancouver, left, and Mrs. R. G. Legge, Richmond, B.C., demonstrate how practical as well as decorative the Bermuda short can be on a course. Like many of their fellow competitors, the two mainland women both prefer a natty straw hat for that finishing touch which is so important. Both women label the local course, "tops" but no place for rookies. "There are so many hidden obstacles that sneak up on you."

Back to the Bedside For Student Nurses

Hospitals may see more of student nurses on the wards in the future. This doesn't mean there will be more nurses but rather a change in the trend of nursing education—practical experience is to be combined with instruction.

METHODS CHANGING

Trend in recent years to have classroom instruction and practical experience in separate blocks is now giving way to the idea that a closer relationship between experience and teaching is necessary.

Along with this approach goes the determination to have the school of nursing as an autonomous body governing nurses' training.

This general approach to nursing education has been projected during a three-day workshop in Victoria which finished today. Many members of local nursing education departments gathered to discuss an improved school program and how best to develop objectives of a basic nursing education program.

PILOT PROJECT

School improvement program stems from a pilot project conducted by the Canadian Registered Nurses Association under direction of Dr. Helen K. Mussallem, Ottawa, in which schools of nursing were evaluated.

Of the 171 hospital schools of nursing in Canada there are 169 participating in the present program under guidance of Miss Glenna Rowsell, Ottawa, director of the school improvement program.

First step towards an improved program is a well-prepared teaching staff. Secondly, the school itself must have control over and determine the type of experience the students will receive. Under this system the student's primary function on the wards will be to gain experience and knowledge, rather than to serve as an additional staff member.

In the education field itself more social sciences are being introduced in an attempt to integrate all the sciences into the nursing curriculum.

ATTEND WORKSHOP

Among the nurses who have attended the workshop are the following from Royal Jubilee Hospital: Mrs. R. S. Townsend, Mrs. D. C. Michael, and Misses Muriel Thompson, Mary J. Irving, Shirley Anderson, Roxy Wilson, Elizabeth Maude-Moore, Lila Moore, Sheila McCann, Phyllis Wightman, Nancy Wright and Eleanor Sutherland.

Staff members from St. Joseph's Hospital included Mrs. A. Neison, Mrs. J. Stokes, Mrs. M. Brown, Mrs. J. Allan, Mrs. J. Mika, Misses Ellen Knighton, Raeburn McKinnon, Nellie Martin, Helen Early, Sister Mary Perpetua, Sister Mary Ronalda, Sister Mirian Claire and Sister Mary Doris.

Honeymoon in Europe

A three-month tour of Europe awaited the former Miss Teresa Delahunty and Malcolm L. Campbell of Seattle following their recent marriage in Our Lady of the Rosary Church at Langford. Bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Delahunty of Victoria.

Fr. W. O'Brien officiated at the double ring ceremony. Bride was given in marriage by Paul Grenier.

Short, full-skirted gown of pure white silk was styled with scoop neckline and short sleeves. Waistline was accented by a tiny bow. Her shoulder-length veil pouffed from a white rose headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Only jewelry was a dainty pair of pearl earrings.

Dr. James Plorde of Seattle was the best man.

Roy Copas proposed the toast to his niece at the reception held in the Copas home on Goldstream Road. Bride's table was centred by three-tier wedding cake flanked by pink and white candles. Guests enjoyed a buffet luncheon.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. Copas and Miss Roberta Baenbridge of Vancouver; Mrs. John Gettles, Miss Elizabeth Giedt, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Furness Jr., all of Seattle.

Leaving for Europe, the bride wore a double-knit wool suit in banana shade complemented with beige coat and hat and black accessories. Upon return, the couple will live in Seattle.

Biculturalism Seen as 'Major Conundrum'

They are Mrs. H. F. McIntyre, Saint John; Mrs. W. P. Augustine, Windsor, and Mrs. Russell Clark, Calgary.

In her presidential report, Mrs. Saul Hayes of Montreal told the 100 delegates at the four-day meeting that a royal commission on biculturalism seems likely and that the council should be prepared to make a submission to it.

"Why the issue has suddenly emerged from a cocoon to a lively concern all in the space of a year is a major conundrum of our time," she said.

"But the fact is that it is the principal political item of our time, putting such items as disarmament, nuclear warheads, relations with the United States and unemployment into folders marked important but reserving the one marked urgent for a thorough discussion of biculturalism in Canada."

STUDY MARRIAGE LAWS

Provincial councils were also asked to study marriage laws, particularly in respect to setting the minimum age for marriage without consent of parents at 21 years of age for both sexes and the requirement of a health examination before a marriage licence is issued.

Resolution asked that the results of the examination be made known to both parties but the legality of this was not known and it was decided this problem could be included in the study.

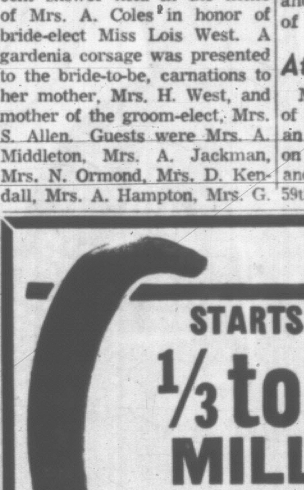

Unanimous approval was given to a resolution from the Canadian Federation of Businss and Professional Women's Clubs which requests the federal government to establish a royal commission on divorce.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Fishermen Deny Using MP's Stamp

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two officials of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) say they don't know how a union press release got into the mail bearing the private stamp of a member of Parliament.

Secretary-Treasurer Homer Stevens and union newspaper editor George North both admitted Tuesday night they had access to the member's office in Ottawa, but denied using the rubber stamp, called a frank, which gives MPs free mailing privileges.

Liberal Grant Deachman said in the Commons Tuesday he received a union press release in an envelope franked by a New Democratic Party MP. The release, he said, was Communist-slanted.

Dr. Howe denied he authorized use of his stamp.

Barry Mather, NDP member for New Westminster who shares the office, said he had invited 10 fishermen's union officials to use the office during their stay in Ottawa.

Mr. North said about 12 copies of the press release in question were mailed in Ottawa to MPs last Friday while he and Mr. Stevens were there.

"I know the releases were put in envelopes," Mr. North said.

"But I don't want to say anything about who mailed them."

He said use of the frank would have been "accidental and purposeless" anyway, because "we could have mailed the releases free to an MP anyway."

Mr. Stevens said he didn't know what a frank was.

"What is it? Some kind of stamp?"

HOODED RAPISTS HUNTED

ST. PAUL DE JOLIETTE, Que. (CP)—The search continues today for four hooded men who broke into the home of tobacco farmer Ferdinand Sylvestre Tuesday and, in front of him, raped his wife, his 12-year-old daughter and a woman neighbor, Quebec Provincial Police said.

The bandits also escaped with $600 in the raid.

About an hour earlier four men, believed to be the same gang, invaded the home of a second farmer, Herve Sansregret, and beat him savagely with a gun butt before escaping with $6,000.

'GET PROVINCIAL OKAY FIRST'

Municipal Aid Plans Hit by Dief

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Tuesday Parliament should not implement the government's proposed $400,000,000 Municipal Development and Loan Fund without first getting approval from the provinces.

The matter is almost exclusively within provincial jurisdiction he told the Commons, calling for a federal - provincial meeting to review all aspects of municipal finance.

Other Conservative MPs also questioned the constitutional validity of the proposed fund. Remi Paul (PC—Berthier-Maskinonge-Delanaudiere) called it a "scandalous rape of the constitution."

Both Prime Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Gordon maintained that the fund bill will contain full protection for provincial rights.

Mr. Gordon said the fund will create jobs and enable municipalities to carry out essential construction projects. He predicted the $400,000,000 fund will cause a 50-per-cent increase in municipal construction in the next three years.

With provincial approval, a municipality could borrow up to two-thirds of the cost of a project at interest based on the cost to the federal government on its own long-term borrowings. Projects completed before March 31, 1966, would be eligible for a writeoff of one-quarter of the loan.

No Decision In Propane Application

A decision was reserved Monday night on a rezoning application for establishment of a propane gas operation in residential View Royal.

B.C. government planning director Donald South reserved his decision on the matter following a public hearing.

The application, submitted by the Industrial Propane Ltd., was opposed by more than 70 residents who attended the meeting in the View Royal Community Hall.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, 59 Thetis Lake Road, said a rezoning change would drive in the thin edge that would turn View Royal into an industrial rather than a residential district.

Reginald Johnson, Vancouver Island manager for Industrial Propane, said the site would be made attractive.

Registrations Lagging Here For Grade One

Although heavy registration has been encountered by the Greater Victoria School Board for kindergarten classes next year, Grade I registrations are lagging.

Superintendent of schools, John Gough, reported a total of 1,363 children had been registered at the 12 kindergarten centres in the district so far. Heavtest numbers were received at Lake Hill, Macaulay, Oaklands, Shelbourne and Tillicum Schools.

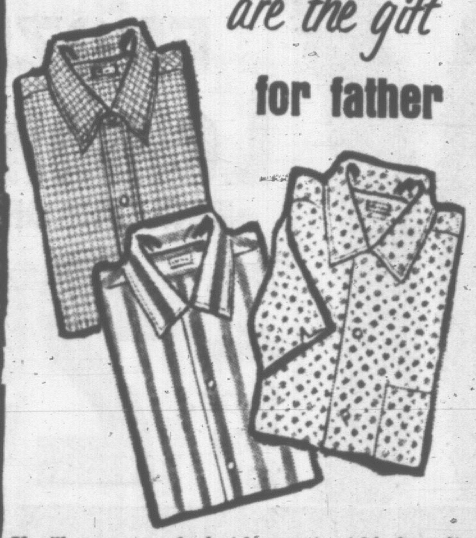

Meanwhile, only 1,906 beginners had been registered in all schools for Grade I by parents. This is 400 less than expected by board officials.

Although the official registration period was between May 27 and May 31, further enrolments for Grade I still can be made at elementary schools between 3 and 4 p.m.

Registrations for kindergarten also are being accepted at Lake Hill, Macaulay, Oaklands, Shelbourne, Tillicum, George Jay, Marigold, North Ward, Sir James Douglas and Uplands Schools.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

A new cedar specialty for Beauty Long Life Economy
• • •
What is "FOREST" Siding?
A new and attractive type of siding that comes from specially selected cedar logs sawn to bring out all the distinctive character of knots, burls and grain.

How Does "FOREST" compare with other siding?
It has more thickness, greater wood volume to add structural strength to any building. Its snug fitting makes good insulation and its low cost makes it ideal for modest budget home builders or remodellers.

How to finish "FOREST"
"Forest" has a distinctive horizontal shadow line that will enhance the beauty of your home.
If you wish to preserve the natural rustic effect of "Forest" apply a coat of oil filler first then varnish or shellac. "Forest" siding also takes paint beautifully if you wish a colored finish.

YOU can easily apply "Forest" Cedar Siding
Many home owners have applied this modern, beautiful "Forest" siding themselves without the slightest difficulty.

This is the "spooky house" previously advertised and skeptically received by many. It really isn't spooky at all; and is in far better condition than my previous ad implied. It is a lovely older home, in a picture-book setting, with complete privacy, and tremendous possibilities for the artistic. An ideal family home with room for family activities and personal privacy. The living room is magnificent, about 40x26, with lovely window arrangements. It is true that this home needs decorating, but not desperately—it's quite livable, and it is structurally absolutely sound. Come and see this rare property if you prefer older homes with character. A brand new home, beautifully designed, well built. A home that anyone would be proud to own. The private entrance leads to a large living room with corner fireplace, mondrian windows, brick planter and is designed for good furniture placement. The large dining room is divided from the living room by a screen with an Oriental motif. The family room is large and near the easy to work in kitchen. Off the family room is a sun deck. The three large bedrooms feature sliding door closets and they too are much larger than normal. The main 4-pce bathroom has a tiled tub enclosure and the powder room is magnificent. The vanity is L-shaped and there is a 12 sq. ft. plate glass mirror. The house is located in Gordon Head on sewer. We believe there is nothing to match this in Victoria. $95 P and I, $15,695.

IS THIS YOU?

"I want a distinctive home that I can be proud to own. It must be easy to live in and good to look at and this eliminates the 'stucco box'. I don't want to live on a street with small lots or a street with houses looking like a row of blocks—the house set backs and the design must vary. Briefly, I want a home and district with some character. The area must be increasing in value, too, to make it a good investment. I want planned landscaping for the whole district—not just my home. I want a home that is properly sited and oriented to take the maximum advantage of the weather, view and my own privacy. I require some fencing. I want a swimming pool and a park for the community. There must be elementary, junior and high schools and the University; also shopping and bus service in close proximity to my home. I want a fully serviced lot and I don't want to be paying taxes on all the services. I want low NHA interest and the privilege of a low down payment without secondary financing or any other gimmicks. I think that most second hand Victoria housing is at least $2,000 overpriced and I won't pay for this. I want a home that has a written guarantee—well built and well designed—and I want the best housing investment available."

The only one in Victoria who can meet your demands is Byron Price, EV 5-2458. Our construction company will build you this home in this district.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Comedian Sid Caesar will take unto himself a comedy foil next season.

Canadian-born Gisele McKenzie is returning to the TV wars as Caesar's sidekick. This has all the earmarks of a top quality union.

Stephen

Gisele has the necessary sense of comedy which could bloom fully with exposure to Caesar's brand of humor.

Caesar presented his last show of the season Monday. It wasn't excruciatingly funny, though there were guffaw-provoking bits scattered like piece-meal throughout the half-hour.

Caesar, masically, is irresistibly funny. He's different because in all his skits he puts across, not himself, but the character he has created. He gives us a chance to watch him repeat small gestures which give us a second and third look at comedy. These effects are repeated until we get the point.

Imogene Coca, his first TV partner, was a natural for this type of comedy. Nanette Fabray parlayed it into a profitable situation for herself. Jane Connell has been his partner this past season, but she didn't catch on as did her predecessors though she had her delightful moments. (The puck in the mouth routine at a hockey game on Monday's show was an example.)

Gisele, in appearances with people like Jack Benny, has more than held her own. She could be what Caesar has been looking for since the Caesar-Coca team shared the TV comedy throne with Milton Berle in the early '50s.

* * *

While some comedians continue to experiment trying to find the success pill, there are some who have stuck to the old format successfully.

* * *

NBC says President Kennedy's Pulitzer prize-winning book, Profiles in Courage, will be produced as a television series.

The network says the series will consist of 26 filmed one-hour programs. They will include biographies in the book plus those of other Americans who have displayed unusual courage.

NBC says that under a policy set by the president, he will donate royalties from the show to a charitable cause.

President Kennedy wrote the book in 1955 while he was a senator and was recovering from Second World War injuries.

THE BIG KILLER - Part 3

Royal Visit Could Mean New Election

CP from AP-Reuters

ATHENS—A government crisis gripped Greece today as a result of King Paul's insistence that he and Queen Frederika make a scheduled state visit to Britain next month.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis resigned Tuesday because the King rejected his advice to postpone or call off the trip. Caramanlis feared a repetition of leftist demonstrations against the queen during a private visit to London in April.

The king now must decide whether to name a new government or to dissolve parliament and call a national election within 45 days.

A new government could only come from Caramanlis's National Radical Union party, which has a 60-seat majority in parliament. But the party's high command at a meeting Tuesday advocated new elections, with the king naming a caretaker cabinet to supervise the voting.

Caramanlis, a staunch friend of the North Atlantic alliance, found himself out of office because he opposed a royal visit to Britain, a NATO ally.

Youth Goes Berserk

FREDERICTON, N.B. (CP) —A youth armed with a .32-calibre rifle went on an unexplained shooting spree Monday, injuring one man before surrendering to city police and the RCMP after an exchange of shots.

Is your dog bone-hungry, too?

MILK-BONE satisfies the bone hunger of your dog

A dog needs to chew, and knows it. In the absence of a bone, even the best-trained dog will find something else to chew—often something he shouldn't. But there are few bones in today's kitchens. Many that are available are not safe or good for your dog. That's why the modern dog goes bone-hungry.

The answer is MILK-BONE—the biscuit with the real bone shape that makes wonderful chewing, without a real bone's tendency to splinter or upset the digestion. MILK-BONE also gives your dog all the important nourishment found in milk, meat, bone-meal and vegetables. Get MILK-BONE in the biscuit size that suits the size of your dog—regular or large.

MAYOR JORDON

Port Mayor Won't Seek Re-Election

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Loran Jordon, a member of the Port Alberni council for 21 years, has announced he will not seek re-election in December.

Asked by an alderman if his decision to retire was caused by the defeat of the recent arena improvement bylaw, the mayor replied "Not altogether".

The council had sought to pass a bylaw to cover a deficit in construction of the arena-curling rink and to complete the project.

But the bylaw was defeated and the council had to cover the over-expenditure of more than $131,000 by raising the mill rate.

It's the second time this has happened to the Toll Authority.

A blaze which wrecked the Tsawwassen sea wall last Nov. 14 was also caused by a welder's torch.

Flames fed by creosote roared 75 feet high within seconds when the Mayne Island fire started at 4:15 p.m. said Allistair Drummond of nearby Springwater Lodge.

WATER TAXI

The Toll Authority today put on an emergency service with a water taxi from Ganges on Salt Spring Island for the 200 Mayne Island residents.

An official said the Toll Authority is trying to arrange a deal with the federal government for temporary use of its wharf at Miner's Bay to restore service with the car-carrying Pender Queen.

'TOTAL LOSS'

"We believe the wharf is a total loss," said manager Monty Aldous.

The wharf was being rebuilt to handle the government's new service, due to start July 1 with the newly-constructed Queen of the Islands.

Mr. Drummond said the fire was caused by an acetylene torch.

"It was the creosote in the new pilings that caught fire," he said.

NO FIREMEN

There is no volunteer fire brigade on Mayne Island.

A 10-man crew of Vancouver Pile Driving Co., working on the new wharf, fought the fire with the assistance of an RCMP launch and a forest service boat from Ganges.

The big ferry Queen of Esquimalt, passing on her way between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, played hoses on the burning dock, but it took two hours before flames could be controlled.

Hotel Brawl Preceded Fatal Knifing

NANAIMO (CP)—A brawl preceded the fatal stabbing of Robert L. McDermott, 30, in a Ucluelet hotel early on the morning of March 19, an Assize Court jury was told Tuesday.

The jury is trying Hiroshi Hama of Ucluelet on a charge of non-capital murder in the case.

RCMP Corporal G. Wigerink of Tofino told the court when he arrived at the hotel he found another man holding Hama, who was trying to escape. He said Hama had blood on his face and clothing and the walls of the hotel corridor were splattered with blood.

McDermott lay in a corner. He was still breathing but failed to reply when spoken to. He was dead on arrival at hospital.

HUNTING KNIFE

Dr. H. R. McDairmid of Tofino testified McDermott had been stabbed four times. Three of the wounds were superficial but a fourth, below the collarbone had severed a major artery and puctured a lung

The case is continuing.

LADYSMITH YOUTH DIES AFTER GAS EXPLOSION

A Ladysmith youth, who suffered third-degree burns in a gasoline explosion that scorched more than 90 per cent of his body, died in St. Joseph's Hospital here Tuesday afternoon.

Michael Dooley, 13, was admitted to hospital Saturday.

Police said an inquiry will probably be held.

The boy became a flaming torch when gasoline he was playing with ignited and exploded.

Kenneth Cross and Robert Wilkinson, two neighbors, put out the flames by wrapping him in a blanket and rolling him on the ground.

64 Sign Against New Water Plan

MILL BAY—Opposition is growing here against a proposed $66,000 waterworks system.

Installing the system would mean the damming of Shawnigan Lake to build a reservoir of 1,000 acre feet of water.

It would also mean that every property in Mill Bay would be assessed a minimum of $15 a year.

"A large number of people have their own wells and don't need a waterworks system," he said.

DUNCAN — Cary Elliott of Duncan pleaded guilty in magistrate's court Tuesday to contributing to juvenile delinquency by assisting a young girl in becoming a common prostitute.

Accused was represented by Nanaimo lawyer, A. W. Vershere. Elliott was remanded to June 21 to await a probation report before sentence is passed.

Magistrate D. K. McAdam set bail at $350.

DUNCAN — Bob Corney, Duncan postmaster, received a 25-year service pin when he attended the recent B.C.-Yukon Postmasters' convention in Penticton.

Born in Duncan, Mr. Corney entered the postal service as a junior clerk in 1937.

During the Second World War, he joined the Canadian Army Postal Service, and rose from the rank of private to lieutenant. Shortly after the war he took over his father's position as postmaster here.

DUNCAN — Social assistance disbursed from the city office during May amounted to $4,146.56.

It included the following payments: 20 families with 66 dependents, $2,299.15; 14 single men, $865.90; 11 single women, $674.70; one child with relatives, $41; two TB cases, $147; and six transients, $118.81.

Payments for the first four months of 1963 were: Jan. $4,615.16; Feb., $5,225.43; March, $4,677.14 and April $4,557.01.

Water Tunnel to Resume

Up to 2½ miles of tunnelling will be put to tender call by Greater Victoria Water Board in August in a major resumption of the Japan Gutch project.

Water commissioner Ronald Upward, Tuesday, told the board that there is about $1,500,000 on hand and the board has reached the position where it could pay for the $5,000,000 project by 1970 without borrowing.

CUT 20 MILES

Altogether, the board plans to punch a 26,000-foot tunnel through Japan Gulch to expand its main supply line capacity from Sooke Lake to the Goldstream reservoir and cut some 20 miles from the present 25-mile-long pipeline route.

Two years ago it hired a hard-rock mining crew to do 3,000 feet of the tunnel, partially to start the project and partially to determine the type of rock it may encounter.

At the same time, the board raised its wholesale price from 10 to 12 cents per 1,000 gallons. The price increase and logging operation profits will pay for the project.

Mr. Upward said there should be no need to raise the wholesale rate for another 10 to 15 years.

The tender call for excavation of up to 15,000 feet will provide for actual removal of about 5,000 feet of rock a year. Quotes also will be sought for completion of the entire 26,000 feet for the sake of cost comparison.

'MOLE' DIGGER

Mr. Upward said the size of the tender call might make it feasible for an American company with a huge "mole" tunnel digger to enter a bid in competition with the bids involving standard tunnelling techniques.

He added that the board's "pay-as-you-go" policy would enable it to build major pipelines in the next decade—notably to Central Saanich—to distribute the water to an expanding urban area without heavy financial strains.

Work Stoppage Faces CNR

WINNIPEG (CP)—Three rail way unions Tuesday announced plans for what amounts to a work stoppage on CNR trains in Western Canada Aug. 18.

The move is to counter what the unions say is a CNR plan to eliminate a number of stop-over points on western lines. The plan has been labelled a "run-through" program.

William Eyre, chairman of the unions' joint run-through committee in Winnipeg, told a press conference of the proposed counter-action.

He did not mention work stoppage, but said the running trades will call continuous meetings of their 6,500 western members starting Aug. 17.

Asked later if this amounted to a walkout, another union official said: "The men cannot be in two places at the same time."

He said the continuous meetings would be carried on for an indefinite period or until a solution is reached.

LONDON (AP)—Air Marshal Sir John Grandy, a fighter pilot in the Battle of Britain, today was named chief of the RAF Bomber Command. He will take up the post Sept. 1.

SEARCH ABANDONED

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy announced today that it has called off the search for two missing crew members of the Canadian navy tracker anti-submarine aircraft that crashed Tuesday night in the Atlantic near Sable Island.

Missing are Lieut. David Frederick Matheson, 28, of Calgary, and PO Robert Albert Hammer of Dartmouth, N.S.

Two of the tracker's crew, Sub.Lt. Donald Thompson Monck, 23, of Hamilton, and Able Seaman Joseph David Bastien of Lantz, N.S., were rescued from a dinghy launched after the plane crashed.

Time Called on Big Winery

B.C.'s Liquor Control Board has declared another winery "off limits" to the general public.

This time the crackdown is on B.C.'s biggest wine producer, the Kelowna plant of Pasquale "Pappa" Capozzi.

The LCB has stopped all public tours of the winery, a big Okanagan tourist attraction.

Similar orders previously halted tours of other plants in Victoria and the lower mainland.

"This hurts tourism," complained Fred Heatley, manager of Kelowna's Chamber of Commerce.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner and LCB Chairman Col. Donald McGugan both refused to comment on the shutdowns.

"I only comply with the law. I only act on facts," said the LCB chief.

REDS HOPE TO LAUNCH SPACEWOMAN ANY DAY

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union plans to launch a woman into space, possibly this week, Communist sources said today.

Communist correspondents say the world's first prospective spacewoman has been selected. She is said to be fairly good looking, in her early 20s, single, and in exceptional physical condition.

According to one unconfirmed report, she is a close friend of Andrian Nikolayev, who orbited the earth 64 times last summer.

GORDON DROPS HINT

No Tax Boost For Little Man?

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A hint that there will be no increase in income taxes for the small wage earner in the budget, was dropped in the Commons Tuesday by Finance Minister Walter Gordon.

Contents of the budget—particularly tax changes—are kept a closely guarded secret by the government.

Consequently it was surprising that the finance minister let drop his veiled hint that the little man will not face increased income taxes. The budget will be brought down Thursday night.

The hint came during an exchange between the minister and Raymond Langlois (SC—Megantic) in the course of the question period. Basing his question on an article in the Toronto Globe and Mail Mr. Langlois said it dealt with a statement made by the minister. It read:

"If we make taxes too burdensom on the very wealthy in an attempt to get more out of them, they may go away and take their wealth with them."

Mr. Langlois asked if that meant that "the minister intends to increase the taxes on small wage earners so as to compensate for those he will not tax proportionately to their revenue, in order to maintain a balanced budget?"

Mr. Gordon pondered the question for a few minutes then selecting his words carefully he replied: "I think if the member waits until Thursday he will be reassured."

Meantime the finance minister's white paper tabled in parliament was being cited today as reinforcing the expectation that the budget will contain new measures to discourage the inflow of foreign capital.

Negroes Given Friendly Hand

By RELMAN MORIN

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Two Negroes — the first of their race to attend the school—went to their first classes at the University of Alabama today and white students extended friendly hands in an atmosphere of tranquility.

Three white girls walked with Miss Vivian J. Malone, one of the Negroes, as she went from her dormitory to a classroom building. They chatted as they strolled.

A white youth called James A. Hood, the other Negro, "Jimmy" in advising him that he had taken the wrong turn along the tree-lined campus at one point.

Across from Comer Hall, where Miss Malone went to study business administration, a national guardsman in green fatigue uniform stood. Nearby were three federal marshals.

The marshals had followed the 20-year-old Negro girl discreetly in a car as she walked from her dormitory a quarter-mile away.

NO CROWDS GATHER

There were no crowds and no incidents. White students at the university seemed to take the situation in stride.

Both Negroes left their respective dormitories shortly before 10 a.m.

Hood, 20, walked from his dormitory to the cafeteria and found it almost full. He went to a table and had breakfast alone.

One guardsman also was in the cafeteria, but it did not appear that Hood had other protection.

Hood, whose major will be psychology, then walked to Woods Hall for his first class in political science.

A federal marshal who asked not to be identified said Hood went to a motion picture in the dormitory recreation room Tuesday night. The marshal said Hood sat with white students.

TALKED FREELY

"They talked freely," the officer said. "There was no animosity."

A third Negro student, Dave McGlathery, plans to enrol Thursday at the university's Huntsville Centre, 150 miles northeast of Tuscaloosa. Governor George C. Wallace declined to say Tuesday night whether he will stand in the doorway there as he did futilely here Tuesday.

Miss Malone and Hood spent the night in dormitories guarded by federal marshals.

Strike Threat Eased

By AB KENT

Threat of a longshoremen's strike hanging over the B.C. shipping industry eased today with the feeling that negotiations between shippers and union would resume Monday.

A shipping spokesman said there is general talk that dock workers and shippers would get together Monday morning to forestall a waterfront tieup in Vancouver Island and mainland ports.

VOTING STARTS

Meanwhile, some 2,000 members of 12 B.C. locals of International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union began voting today to authorize strike action against B.C. Shipping Federation.

Results were not expected before Friday at the earliest.

Union and federation have been in dispute for more than a year, essentially over jurisdiction and protection against automation in cargo handling. The union considers wage increases of lesser importance.

It is estimated a longshoremen's strike would cost the west coast economy $2¾ million a day directly, and increasingly more as repercussions are felt in primary and secondary export industries.

CHINA ORDERS

In addition there would be grain shipments lost, including the important large orders by China. A 15,000-ton wheat cargo is scheduled for China Saturday.

"A strike would put us in awful shape," said W. Stan Moore, managing director of Western Lumber Carriers Ltd. "Provided we were not picketted, we would stockpile all we could at Ogden Point, but it would not be long before the yard would be plugged. We would pile around our mill

Mac Wins Cabinet Support

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan held an emergency cabinet meeting today and was reported to have persuaded his ministers to back his handling of the Profumo vice scandal.

None of the ministers would speak publicly about the dramatic cabinet meeting and in fact none of them looked happy about it. But the informed Press Association said it was evident that the meeting "was a harmonious one and that there may well be a unanimity of view."

These facts leaked out:

The cabinet received the report of an inquiry into whether resigned war minister John Profumo violated security in his relations with model Christine Keeler who was having an affair at the same time with a Soviet navy captain, Yevgeni Ivanov.

Strategy was planned for next Monday's parliamentary session when the Labor opposition is certain to attack the government on its handling of the entire scandal.

Shot in Back Outside Home

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Medgar W. Evers, a prominent southern Negro leader, was fatally shot in the back in the driveway of his home here early today.

The 37-year-old Evers, who had been directing a massive civil disobedience campaign against racial discrimination in the Mississippi capital city, died 15 minutes later in University Medical Centre.

Evers was shot as he stepped out of his car after returning home from an integration rally.

The bullet struck Evers in the right side of his back, passed through his body, and smashed through a glass-pannelled door in his house. The bullet was found on the floor of the kitchen.

Evers staggered to the kitchen door and collapsed. His wife hurried to the carport and became hysterical when she saw him.

INVITE FBI HELP

Two other neighbors, Willie C. Quinn and Houston Wells, called police. Then they put Evers in his own station wagon and took him to hospital escorted by police.

Evers, a native of Decatur, Miss., had been Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for the last nine years.

M. B. Pierce, Jackson chief of detectives, called the slaying "most unfortunate."

"We had men detailed to all their meetings trying to prevent any violence whatever. We will do everything possible to apprehend the guilty party or parties."

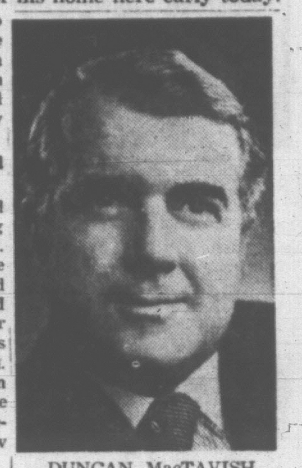

Pierce invited agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assist with the investigation.

Police announced the murder rifle has been found in bushes near the scene.

He issued a statement saying: "The assassination of Medgar N. Evers demonstrates anew the blind and murderous hatred

The appointments brought Liberal membership in the Senate to 61. There are 37 Conservatives, two independents, one Independent Liberal and one vacancy, a Quebec seat.

Smoking Health Hazard Prompts Ottawa Study

By ALEX YOUNG

(See story Page 2)

OTTAWA — Under pressure from the public and the medical profession, the federal government is moving to assess its role in the controversy over the health perils of smoking.

Just what action Ottawa might take in an effort to mitigate the apparent health hazard won't be known until the health and welfare department confers with "interested groups" on the question.

Government concern, however, has been clearly expressed by Health Minister Judy Lamarsh, who smokes cigarettes herself but who also says she has been "frankly stunned by the rise of public concern" over smoking.

In addition to being faced with a bombardment of questions from Members of Parliament about what the government intends to do, Miss Lamarsh also has been receiving a deluge of letters from citizens who are just as interested in the government's plans.

Most telling pressure, government spokesmen are quick to admit, has come from the Canadian Medical Association. In a study of the relationship between smoking and disease, the CMA found not only a cancer link but a link between heavy smoking and other chronic ailments of the respiratory-circulatory system.

Immediate plans of the federal government are to consult with the interested groups mentioned by Miss Lamarsh in recent comment on the problem.

MANY GROUPS

Such a conference, it is learned, would include representatives of the CMA, Cancer Society, the tobacco industry and growers, educators, and federal and provincial medical experts.

One of the first programs to develop from the conference, it is understood, would be a program to educate the nation's youth on the smoking health problem.

Another move considered by Ottawa is enforcement of the Tobacco Restraint Act. This act has been in existence since 1908 but has been rarely enforced.

It provides a fine of up to $100 for anyone furnishing smoking material to children under 16; it provides a fine of up to $4 for children caught smoking; and it provides maximum fine of $25 for anyone in charge of a cigarette vending machine who permits children under 16 to use it. If vending machine operators continue to permit use by children the machines can be ordered removed.

MINISTER TO DISCUSS TOBACCO ADS

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, will meet Health Minister Judy La Marsh shortly to discuss cigarette smoking and lung cancer in relation to radio and television advertising.

BBG Vice-Chairman Carlyle Allison said today the BBG has received representations from the Saskatchewan cancer commission expressing concern at the effect of cigarette advertising on television on young persons. The commission, a branch of the Saskatchewan public health department, suggested that a similar cigarette advertising policy be adopted as for liquor ads.

CONVICTS WOULD CALL PRISON COMMISSIONER

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Three convicts facing three charges in an April 19 prison riot have asked to have Canada's commissioner of penitentiaries take the stand as a defence witness.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy appealed in a broadcast speech for an end to discrimination against Negroes.

He did five things in his talk Tuesday night:

1. He blamed all 50 states, not just the south where racial prejudice is most intense, for discrimination.

2. He made equal treatment for Negroes an urgent necessity by noting that violence and lives are threatened.

3. He asked all white Americans to examine their conscience and co-operate in ending discrimination.

4. By the broadcast he put the full weight of his office behind his plea to give Negroes the constitutional rights denied them.

5. He outlined steps he wants Congress to take in this direction by passing laws to overcome segregation.

URGED TO SPEAK

That he make such a talk had been urged on Kennedy from various quarters for weeks as racial tensions increased and, in some places, burst into riots.

The indications were that he would not.

He finally did it a few hours after compelling the admittance of two Negroes to the University of Alabama over the completely empty resistance of Governor George C. Wallace.

If Kennedy had made the same kind of talk earlier in his administration some, if not most, of the present tensions might have been avoided although perhaps not unless he had followed the talk with action.

By the same token race relations in the United States now might have been far more advanced if President Eisenhower had made a similar plea just once in his eight years in office.

It is clear Kennedy felt compelled to talk now not because racial discrimination is any worse but because of the crisis he mentioned.

This is because Negroes, realizing they can accomplish far more by collective action than alone, have begun to batter against racial barriers in demonstrations which, if frustrated, could become riots.

MAKES TWO POINTS

Kennedy made two points on the legislation he will lay before Congress:

He wants a law giving Negroes the right to be served in public facilities, like hotels and restaurants. This seems to mean a law forbidding proprietors of such facilities, if they are involved in interstate commerce at all, to decide on their own to refuse to serve Negroes.

He wants a law from Congress to authorize the federal federal government to step in more fully in lawsuits to end segregation in public education. As of now, a Negro denied admittance to a segregated school in almost all areas must file his own suit. Few Negroes can afford such expense.

Some Negro leaders feel, however, that unless Congress passes a law permitting the government to file a suit in any case where a Negro's civil rights are denied—not just in selected fields—all other measures are insufficient.

GLASSCO REPORT SUMMARY SAYS BASIC ORGANIZATION GOOD

'Delegate Authority for Streamlined Government'

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Greater delegation of authority is the key to more efficient operation of the gigantic federal government apparatus, the Glassco royal commission stressed in its fifth and final report Wednesday.

In a 3,600-word summary of its study into government organization, the three-man commission said the federal machine is a good one that needs only oiling to free its creaking joints of clogging red tape and give its operating segments a greater degree of freedom.

The report, tabled in the Commons, outlines the commissioners' general philosophy of good government operation set against the background of our previous reports. Unlike the previous ones, which ran a total of 800,000 words, its proposals are general, not specific, relating to the government as a whole, rather than to individual situations.

Heavy emphasis is laid on present lines of authority, beginning with the cabinet ministers, of whom it says:

"As long ago as 1912 an outside expert, Sir George Murray, reported to the cabinet that 'the minister has too much to do and tries to do too much.' Fifty years later, this state of affairs is little changed, with the result that the public is often exasperated in dealing with public servants lacking power of decision even in commonplace situations."

From this premise, the report goes on to argue that cabinet ministers should delegate more authority to lower echelons of their departments to increase efficiency and give themselves more opportunity to deal with leadership, policy matters and long-term objectives.

As an example, it cites the transport department where spending has trebled in 10 years with the enormous growth of civil aviation and marine services. Pressing problems of transport policy matters made it imperative to free the minister and his deputy of ever-increasing involvement in operations.

At the same time, the commission sets out new management methods aimed at developing effective systems of internal review, of reports and of preparing accurate cost information. It says these will give the cabinet minister and his senior aides adequate control of operations.

"One further condition must be recognized," it goes on. "Where there is devolution of operating authority and responsibility there must be the means, and the willingness, to reward good performance and to penalize inadequacy.

TINY BLUE FLOWERS of the lobelia would be unnoticed growing out of any other rocky bank, but this one was spotted by Pat Siddon sprouting from the Government Street Bank of Montreal. Seeds probably drifted into sidewalk crevasse from nearby hanging basket. (Bill Halkett photo.)

Greatest present use for the "hovercraft" appears to be transportation of people and equipment in the trackless north, according to B.C. Toll Ferries general manager Monty Aldous.

Mr. Aldous told the harbor and transportation group of the Chamber of Commerce Monday that a hovercraft ferry is at least five to 10 years away on this coast. Chief drawback is its lack of ability to carry large truck trailers.

Mainland Doctor Suspended In Goofball Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Physician Samuel William Baker has been suspended from practising for six months for infamous and unprofessional conduct.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons said it acted after a committee composed of three doctors and a County Court judge investigated charges related to the prescribing of barbiturates by Baker.

Aug. 1, 1962, a city newspaperman reported he received six barbiturate capsules from Dr. Baker. The reporter said he was not given a physical examination or asked any questions about his medical background.

The reporter was investigating trafficking in goofballs, barbiturates taken with alcohol to produce a light-headed effect. The goofballs are taken as a substitute for the more-powerful heroin.

OCEAN EMPORIUM OPEN TO PUBLIC FRIDAY MORNING

Fishbowl: Where Big Ones Don't Get Away

By MONTE ROBERTS

Rumors that something fishy is going on in Oak Bay are true.

The locale for these fishy happenings is a 96-foot, 500-ton steel contraption which resembles a barge with a ship's superstructure, is officially named Undersea Garden, and is affectionately known to many Oak Bay natives as Charlie White's ocean emporium.

Call it what you will, the contraption well earns the adjective fantastic.

It has been said scores of times that Charlie White's approach to making a display of marine life available to the public is a unique one, but it takes a visit to the Undersea Garden to prove it.

What Mr. White has done is simple in concept, complicated in execution; he has made it possible for people to go to the fish in comfort and safety, while the fish are (presumably) contented in their natural habitat.

The Undersea Garden is moored at the Oak Bay Marina. It was built by Victoria Machinery Depot to Mr. White's design, and is essentially an aquarium in reverse; the people watching the fish are inside, looking out; the fish watching the people are outside, looking in.

Outside the thick windows, underwater lights illuminate a series of set-pieces with living actors gliding silently through, in surroundings which appear completely natural.

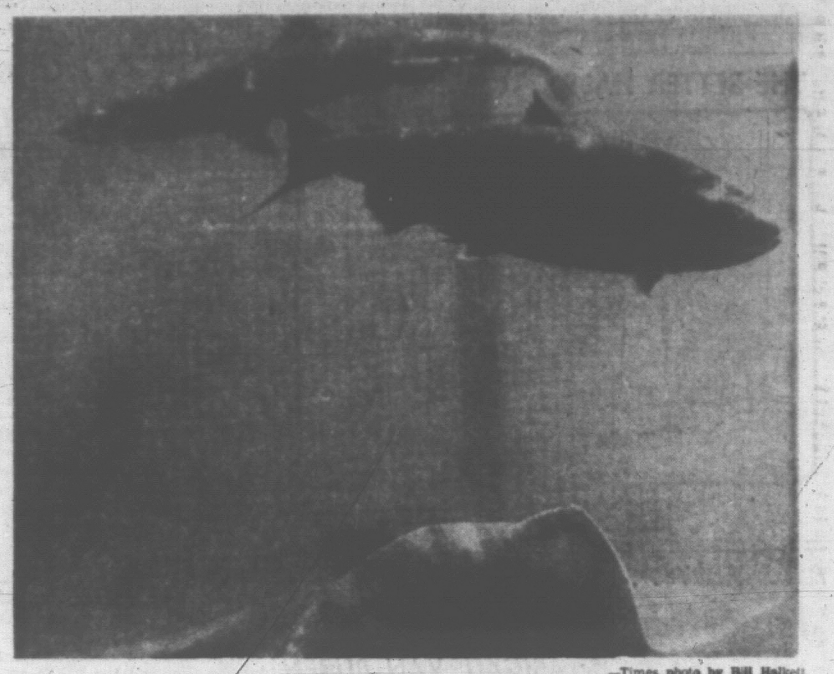

The finny actors move freely around the viewing chamber but are prevented from departing for parts unknown by a wire mesh fence. The fence has been artfully camouflaged to blend with nature, and to form the backdrop of the well-lit underwater stage.

There are dozens of species of fish, all of them taken from waters adjacent to Vancouver Island, and installed around the viewing chamber by skindivers. There are fish everybody knows about: perch, salmon, the dogfish who is really a shark, the ratfish who is too ugly to describe.

There are also rarely-seen fish: sturgeon caught off the West Coast; octopus, common to these waters but seldom seen in action by those who don't have Scuba gear; and a fearsome couple of wolf eels, sometimes known as king of the salmon because the salmon are so frightened of them.

I found my visit to the Undersea Garden a fascinating experience. The official opening will be Thursday evening and the enterprise is open to the public Friday morning.

I have a feeling Charlie White's ocean emporium is going to be a winner.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1963—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Now is the time of the big spring salmon, when the boatman may find himself ending his fight with a lunker under the risen moon, and the angler who prowls the rock points with spinning gear keeps an eye cocked for a flurry of bait fish and the swirl of a tail rather wider than his two hands.

He is a dour and unpredictable fish, this river-spawning sea feeder with the streamlined shape of a trout, and a heft that has been known to exceed 125 pounds. His preferred foraging hours are grey dawn and evening dimmity; but often enough, some startled troller has heard his reel cut loose with a sustained war-cry under the full blaze of noon.

That happened to me last off the hulks at Oyster Bay. I was fishing small, with a size-three Tom Mack and an ounce of lead, not looking for trouble.

Then 60 feet astern came the skittering flight of herring minnows, the surface eddy to speak of underwater massacre, and before I could dip oars again, a thundering strike.

He was a big fish. He ran me out and broke me off without once showing himself. But I like to think he was the authentic forty-pounder I've never yet landed.

* * *

Coho fishing is brisker sport, especially with fly and spinner trolled fast on a short line. But that's a sunshine game, a contest with a lightweight who can be depended on to show himself in a burst of aerial acrobatics.

Not so with your heavy spring salmon. That fellow can, and often does stage a tremendous run if tagged on light gear, but his typical fight is a deep and dogged slugging-match.

You pump the rod, grind the reel, and gain a few feet of line. The spring shakes his head, sets tail and fins, and with a power that will smash tackle if snubbed, claims your painfully-recovered footage . . . plus an extra couple of fathoms to teach you respect for his breed.

This stubborn give-and-take may last 30 minutes, but with shadows deepening, wrists aching, and tide edging you in toward a kelp reef, it can seem hours. It has a quality of excitement almost sinister; as if you waited for one of Caddy's coils to break surface.

What finally does emerge is a wedge-shaped dorsal fin, a tail lobe, and as you heave once more, a dark-spotted green back.

If time and tide allow, it's safest to play your spring salmon till he rolls a bronze-and-silver side. The hasty gaff stroke or scoop with a landing net loses many a good fish.

* * *

It seems to me that the sportsman can justify his life-taking only if he uses his quarry well—and by this, I don't mean distributing a limit catch of uncleaned fish among reluctant friends.

On the rare occasion when we bring home a spring salmon, we generally celebrate with a barbecue! Each side yields a king-sized fillet; or you can remove the good red flesh in a single section, to be clamped in a frame of green saplings and propped over a beach fire-pit stoked with bark-chunks till its stones are all but incandescent.

Basted with butter and lemon juice and devoured on an island beach or in a suburban backyard, that's fish as the gods meant it to be.

Even with no other garnish than a splash of sea water, salmon barbecued thoroughly and slowly over a fir-bark fire provides better eating than erring mankind deserves.

In fact, take him any way you like, he's a very fine fellow, this spring salmon. I only hope that present efforts to save him and his lesser cousins for posterity aren't too little and too late.

'I Never Saw Him' —Driver

An inquest opened today into the death in hospital of an elderly man nearly three weeks after he was knocked down by a car in Esquimalt May 17.

Richard Scudder, 84, who lived at the Salvation Army Matson Lodge, was in collision with a taxi driven by Raymond Oulette, 33 Battleford, at the intersection of Esquimalt Road and Head Street. He died June 5.

The accident occurred, it was testified today, when the deceased stepped off the south curb into the east pedestrian crosswalk at the intersection.

Transferred to Veterans' Hospital 24 hours after being taken to St. Joseph's, he was listed as in "good" condition only two days before he died, doctors said.

Dr. Ross McNeely, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said cause of death was a blood clot from the pelvis injury which reached the lung.

More Debate On Blanshard

Provincial housing commissioner J. E. Brown, noting council has blown hot and cold on the subject, today asked what the present status of the proposal is.

Mr. Brown today wrote the provincial government, had given its approval in principle to the project.

"However, I understand your council have decided not to proceed with this scheme at this time," he said.

"I would appreciate it if you would advise me of the status of the scheme so I could inform" the federal government.

SUBSIDY EFFECT

Good Winter, Bad Summer Says Builder

A house-building vacuum between now and the start of $500 per house federal incentive payments this fall was predicted today by a Victoria contractor.

William Tytler, of William Tytler Construction Co., Ltd., said prospective builders would wait for the $500 subsidy to start before commencing new houses.

"We're going to have the biggest winter (for house building) on record and the lousiest summer," he said.

100 JOBLESS

"It doesn't make sense to me," he added, noting there are already 100 union carpenters out of work in this area.

He said the government should have withheld announcement of the payments until fall.

Appeal Made For Student Berry Pickers

An appeal to some 500 students to turn out Friday for strawberry picking was made today by the National Employment Service office.

The appeal follows reports from growers that berries have started to rot on the ground because of the shortage of some 400 pickers to harvest the crop.

The students, those who are recommended and don't have to take examinations, are free Thursday.

George Bevis, manager of the NES office, said today he has streamlined the procedure for employing students as farm help.

"They don't have to come down to the NES office to register," he said. "All they have to do is to report at the Vancouver Island bus depot Friday at 7:30 a.m."

He said they would be employed as pickeers and transported immediately to various farms.

A picker earns 60 cents a crate, according to H. Bickford, manager of the Saanich Fruit Growers Association.

He said this averaged out to about $5 to $8 a day—depending on the picker's ability and the yield per acre.

Even Spread Asked On Civic Loan Fund

Mayor R. B. Wilson today called for federal government assurance that the new $400,000,00 civic loan fund will be spread evenly across the country.

On a proportionate basis, the Greater Victoria area could expect to obtain between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 of the loan fund for capital works.

The city itself would qualify for a $1,000,000 federal loan on a population basis.

But if the money is parcelled out on a first-come first-served basis the smaller communities like Greater Victoria might find nothing was left in the fund for them, Mayor Wilson said.

"One or two big cities could move in and take up practically all of the fund if there isn't some safeguard to protect the smaller municipalities by ensuring the fund is spread evenly across the country," he pointed out.

He welcomed the announcement in Parliament that one-quarter of the loans would be written off by Ottawa if the projects involved were completed by March of 1966.

For Victoria, if a per capita system is used, this would mean it could obtain a loan of $1,000,000 for a capital project and only have to repay $750,000 at interest rates comparable to those obtained by the federal government — usually much lower than civic interest rates.

STIMULANT

"That would certainly stimulate needed civic construction," said the mayor.

"But I'm sure the municipalities will be disappointed that they must raise one-third of the cost of these projects independently. It's difficult to see the reason why they can't finance all of it through the fund."

He added that Victoria council will have to decide which of several proposed civic projects should be financed through the fund, obtain provincial approval and then ratepayer approval before it could apply to Ottawa for the money.

That would take months and unless an allocation system is set up, the fund might be empty by the time smaller cities like Victoria made their applications.

Driver Jailed After Police Untangle Ruse

A driver who tried to hoodwink police about an accident and had another accident while doing so was sentenced to a total of 37 days' jail by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court today.

Smith has been previously convicted three times for driving while under suspension and for careless driving.

FROM PARTY

Police evidence showed that Smith left a party early on the morning of May 5 and, when turning from Cook on to Princess, he collided with two parked cars.

He left the scene and went back to the party from where he telephoned police to say his vehicle had been stolen. He then went to move his car away from the scene of the party. In the process he hit a stop sign and a fence as he drove north on Chambers.

The magistrate imposed a sentence of seven days on the first charge or careless driving and 10 days for the second. He sentenced Smith to 20 days for failing to remain. The sentences will be served consecutively.

Musicians Propose More Concerts At Beacon Hill

The past two years, the union and City Hall have each chipped in $1,000 to pay for the concert series, supplemented by free navy band concerts and other performances.

This year the union proposed a schedule of nine concerts—three each with large bands, orchestras and variety programs costing a total of $4,195.

It offered to finance $2,195 itself if the city increased its grant to $2,000.

Recognition Doubtful For SIU Ferry Union

The Seafarers' International Union has launched its campaign to sign up all B.C. government ferry employees, but there were doubts today the government will recognize them.

'CUT RATE'

Thirty ferry crewmen signed up for a new division of the SIU, to be called the B.C. Water Services Association, at a Vancouver meeting Tuesday night.

SIU port agent Rod Heinekey said they will first apply for a charter from the SIU of Canada executive then seek bargaining rights from the B.C. government.

SLIM CHANCE

But their chances appear slim.

"There will be no certification," declared an offical of the labor department.

"If there is any recognition by the government, it will only be voluntary."

He explained that the government at present deals only with the B.C. Government Employees' Association. This is "a working arrangement," not recognition of bargaining rights.

SKEPTICAL

BCGEA spokesman A. R. Kemp said the association represents a majority of ferry employees.

He was skeptical of the SIU's success.

"To our knowledge they have made no inroads on our membership," he said. "And we've certainly run into a lot of anti-SIU feeling."

He said he doubted the government would recognize the SIU.

Mr. Heinekey was quite confident, however.

"These people want representation from a union—something they can govern and control themselves without being under the influence of a bunch of office workers."

Claiming the SIU has more than 300 members among ferry employees who formerly worked for the Black Ball line, Mr. Heinekey said his goal is 100 per cent membership.

Quake Centred 30 Miles From City

Centre of an earthquake which shook Vancouver Island homes Tuesday night was probably under the sea about 30 miles northeast of Victoria, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain reported today.

It started at 10:15 p.m. and lasted about one minute.

"It was only a minor earthquake—similar to one we had here last fall—but the observatory was flooded with phone calls until late Tuesday night," said Seismologist William Milne.

DISHES SHAKE

No damage was reported, but dishes rattled and pictures tilted on walls as far north as Brentwood Bay and Colwood.

Many Victoria residents called the police and one man living on Newton Street said he thought his oil furnace had exploded.

One rumor was that an oil refinery had blown up and some inquired if the navy was firing guns in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Many thought the rumble was that of high-flying jet bombers.

Q. Where were the two pohutukawa trees planted by the captain of HMNZS Royalist on its visit last summer. How are they doing?? U.O.

A. Only one of the trees was officially planted by Captain J. O'C. Ross and J. S. Reid, New Zealand high commissioner to Canada, on the third lawn at Government House. The other is still sitting in a tub.

The planted tree is doing very well. It has increased in thickness but is still only about two feet tall. The tree is being gradually climatized by spending winters in a protective lath house.

HE'S GOING BACK TO AFRICAN WILDS

By IAIN HUNTER

A doctor who has been practising here for 2½ years today is leaving the comforts of Victoria to establish a hospital in the jungle of a turbulent African republic.

Dr. J. A. Hay will go to Ruanda in central Africa as a medical missionary. He will establish a medical centre and nursing school under auspices of the Seventh Day Adventists Mission, on the shores of Lake Kivu.

This will not be the first time Manitoba-born Dr. Hay has lived in Africa. Already he has been associated with missions in Bechuanaland and Nyasaland.

But he admits it is hard to leave Victoria.

"For the sake of my children's education I am determined to come back here finally," he said.

But while he and his wife Gertrude are serving in Ruanda, his two girls, 14 and 10, and two boys, 12 and 5, will be sent to a boarding school in Cape Town.

The hospital will be set up in buildings left behind by former Belgian settlers in the UN trusteeship of Ruanda-Urundi. In association with another medical missionary from California, Dr. Hay will transport medical supplies to set up the centre, the 12th in a chain administered by his church.

For the past year, in preparation for his new mission, the doctor has been learning how to fly a plane, necessary for him to visit all of his 1,000,000 prospective patients.

At the same time his wife, a graduate of St. Joseph's nursing school, has been taking a quick course in motor mechanics.

Both have acquired a smattering of French.

Dr. Hay said there are few white people left in the country since the Belgians fled before independence was granted the republic some 10 months ago.

DR. J. A. HAY
. . . hard to leave

Dr. Hay already has made the acquaintance of the people with whom he will be dealing.

He has met members of the seven-foot Watusi tribe and the pigmies — some three-foot-six tall — who inhabit the country.

Medical practice there will be rather different than it was in Victoria, he admits.

"They have different codes of ethics and morals, and there will be a language barrier," he said.

"We will be using our medicines and techniques. But they are a primitive people with a native mentality, and still use witchcraft," he added.

"Out there our practice of medicine will have to be pretty successful."

Negro Leader Assassinated

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Medgar W. Evers, a prominent southern Negro leader, was fatally shot in the back in the driveway of his home here early today.

The 37-year-old Evers, who had been directing a massive civil disobedience campaign against racial discrimination in the Mississippi capital city, died 15 minutes later in University Medical Centre.

Evers was shot as he stepped out of his car after returning home from an integration rally.

The bullet struck Evers in the right side of his back, passed through his body, and smashed through a glass-panelled door in his house. The bullet was found on the floor of the kitchen.

Evers staggered to the kitchen door and collapsed. His wife hurried to the carport and became hysterical when she saw him.

INVITE FBI HELP

Two other neighbors, Willie C. Quinn and Houston Wells, called police. Then they put Evers in his own station wagon and took him to hospital escorted by police.

Evers, a native of Decatur, Miss., had been Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for the last nine years.

M. B. Pierce, Jackson chief of detectives, called the slaying "most unfortunate."

"We had men detailed to all their meetings trying to prevent any violence whatever. We will do everything possible to apprehend the guilty party or parties."

Pierce invited agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assist with the investigation.

Police announced the murder rifle has been found in bushes near the scene.

He issued a statement saying: "The assassination of Medgar N. Evers demonstrates anew the blind and murderous hatred

Strike Threat Eased

By AB KENT

Threat of a longshoremen's strike hanging over the B.C. shipping industry eased today with the feeling that negotiations between shippers and union would resume Monday.

A shipping spokesman said there is general talk that dock workers and shippers would get together Monday morning to forestall a waterfront tieup in Vancouver Island and mainland ports.

VOTING STARTS

Meanwhile, some 2,000 members of 12 B.C. locals of International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union began voting today to authorize strike action against B.C. Shipping Federation.

Results were not expected before Friday at the earliest.

Union and federation have been in dispute for more than a year, essentially over jurisdiction and protection against automation in cargo handling. The union considers wage increases of lesser importance.

It is estimated a longshoremen's strike would cost the west coast economy $2¾ million a day directly, and increasingly more as repercussions are felt in primary and secondary export industries.

CHINA ORDERS

In addition there would be grain shipments lost, including the important large orders by China. A 15,000-ton wheat cargo is scheduled for China Saturday.

"A strike would put us in awful shape," said W. Stan Moore, managing director of Western Lumber Carriers Ltd.

"Provided we were not picketted, we would stockpile all we could at Ogden Point, but it would not be long before the yard would be plugged. We would pile around our mill

Mac Wins Cabinet Support

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan held an emergency cabinet meeting today and was reported to have persuaded his ministers to back his handling of the Profumo vice scandal.

None of the ministers would speak publicly about the dramatic cabinet meeting and in fact none of them looked happy about it. But the informed Press Association said it was evident that the meeting "was a harmonious one and that there may well be a unanimity of view."

These facts leaked out:

The cabinet received the report of an inquiry into whether resigned war minister John Profumo violated security in his relations with model Christine Keeler who was having an affair at the same time with a Soviet navy captain, Yevgeni Ivanov.

Strategy was planned for next Monday's parliamentary session when the Labor opposition is certain to attack the government on its handling of the entire scandal.

GORDON DROPS HINT

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A hint that there will be no increase in income taxes for the small wage earner in the budget, was dropped in the Commons Tuesday by Finance Minister Walter Gordon.

Contents of the budget—particularly tax changes—are kept a closely guarded secret by the government.

Consequently it was surprising that the finance minister let drop his veiled hint that the little man will not face increased income taxes. The budget will be brought down Thursday night.

The hint came during an exchange between the minister and Raymond Langlois (SC—Megantic) in the course of the question period. Basing his question on an article in the Toronto Globe and Mail Mr. Langlois said it dealt with a statement made by the minister. It read:

"If we make taxes too burdensom on the very wealthy in an attempt to get more out of them, they may go away and take their wealth with them."

Mr. Langlois asked if that meant that "the minister intends to increase the taxes on small wage earners so as to compensate for those he will not tax proportionately to their revenue, in order to maintain a balanced budget?"

Mr. Gordon pondered the question for a few minutes then selecting his words carefully he replied: "I think if the member waits until Thursday he will be reassured."

Meantime, the finance minister's white paper tabled in parliament was being cited today as reinforcing the expectation that the budget will contain new measures to discourage the inflow of foreign capital.

Tolerance, JFK Appeal To Nation

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy appealed in a broadcast speech for an end to discrimination against Negroes.

He did five things in his talk Tuesday night:

1. He blamed all 50 states, not just the south where racial prejudice is most intense, for discrimination.

2. He made equal treatment for Negroes an urgent necessity by noting that violence and lives are threatened.

3. He asked all white Americans to examine their conscience and co-operate in ending discrimination.

4. By the broadcast he put the full weight of his office behind his plea to give Negroes the constitutional rights denied them.

5. He outlined steps he wants Congress to take in this direction by passing laws to overcome segregation.

URGED TO SPEAK

That he make such a talk had been urged on Kennedy from various quarters for weeks as racial tensions increased and, in some places, burst into riots.

The indications were that he would not.

He finally did it a few hours after compelling the admittance of two Negroes to the University of Alabama over the completely empty resistance of Governor George C. Wallace.

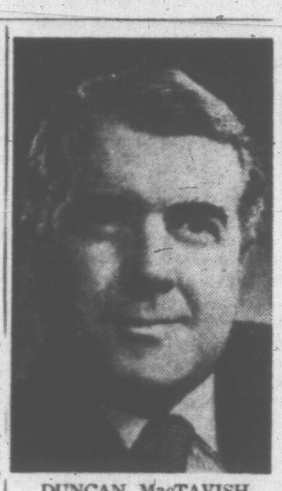

If Kennedy had made the same kind of talk earlier in his administration some, if not most, of the present tensions might have been avoided although perhaps not unless he had followed the talk with action.

By the same token race relations in the United States now might have been far more advanced if President Eisenhower had made a similar plea just once in his eight years in office.

It is clear Kennedy felt compelled to talk now not because racial discrimination is any worse but because of the crisis he mentioned.

Coroners' Jury Brings Verdict

FROM TIMES NEWS SERVICES

MONTREAL — A four-to-one verdict of a five-man coroner's jury today held 20 men and one woman criminally responsible for the bombing death of army night watchman Wilfred Vincent O'Neill.

The majority decision of the jury was returned at 5:15 p.m. after 35 minutes of deliberation.

Jacques Ducros, representing the Crown, said arraignments will be sought as soon as possible.

He declined to specify charges "until the transcript of the evidence has been examined."

The 21 held criminally responsible are 15 who have been held as material witnesses for the inquest and six others named by Coroner Marcel Trahan in his address to the jury. They are alleged members of the terrorist Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ).

Coroner Trahan, who earlier had sentenced four of the accused FLQ members to a month in jail for contempt, formally announced the jury's findings while Mrs. Wilfred V. O'Neill, the victim's widow watched in the courtroom.

He said he found the accused "criminally responsible for the violent death of W. V. O'Neill on the night of April 20."

Crown attorney Guy Desjardins told reporters that the prosecution planned to "throw the book" at all of the accused FLQ members. He said "you can write a book on the charges—there are so many," from murder on down.

Negroes Given Friendly Hand

By RELMAN MORIN

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Two Negroes — the first of their race to attend the school—went to their first classes at the University of Alabama today and white students extended friendly hands in an atmosphere of tranquility.

Three white girls walked with Miss Vivian J. Malone, one of the Negroes, as she went from her dormitory to a classroom building. They chatted as they strolled.

A white youth called James A. Hood, the other Negro, "Jimmy" in advising him that he had taken the wrong turn along the tree-lined campus at one point.

Across from Comer Hall, where Miss Malone went to study business administration, a national guardsman in green fatigue uniform stood. Nearby were three federal marshals.

The marshals had followed the 20-year-old Negro girl discreetly in a car as she walked from her dormitory a quarter-mile away.

NO CROWDS GATHER

There were no crowds and no incidents. White students at the university seemed to take the situation in stride.

Both Negroes left their respective dormitories shortly before 10 a.m.

Hood, 20, walked from his dormitory to the cafeteria and found it almost full. He went to a table and had breakfast alone.

One guardsman also was in the cafeteria, but it did not appear that Hood had other protection.

Hood, whose major will be psychology, then walked to Woods Hall for his first class in political science.

A federal marshal who asked not to be identified said Hood went to a motion picture in the dormitory recreation room Tuesday night. The marshal said Hood sat with white students.

TALKED FREELY

"They talked freely," the officer said. "There was no animosity."

MINISTER TO DISCUSS TOBACCO ADS

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, will meet Health Minister Judy La Marsh shortly to discuss cigarette smoking and lung cancer in relation to radio and television advertising.

BBG Vice-Chairman Carlyle Allison said today the BBG has received representations from the Saskatchewan cancer commission expressing concern at the effect of cigarette advertising on television on young persons. The commission, a branch of the Saskatchewan public health department, suggested that a similar cigarette advertising policy be adopted as for liquor ads.

Smoking Health Hazard Prompts Ottawa Study

(See story Page 2)

OTTAWA — Under pressure from the public and the medical profession, the federal government is moving to assess its role in the controversy over the health perils of smoking.

Just what action Ottawa might take in an effort to mitigate the apparent health hazard won't be known until the health and welfare department confers with "interested groups" on the question.

Government concern, however, has been clearly expressed by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, who smokes cigarettes herself but who also says she has been "frankly stunned by the rise of public concern" over smoking.

In addition to being faced with a bombardment of questions from Members of Parliament about what the government intends to do, Miss LaMarsh also has been receiving a deluge of letters from citizens who are just as interested in the government's plans.

Most telling pressure, government spokesmen are quick to admit, has come from the Canadian Medical Association. In a study of the relationship between smoking and disease, the CMA found not only a cancer link but a link between heavy smoking and other chronic ailments of the respiratory-circulatory system.

Immediate plans of the federal government are to consult with the interested groups mentioned by Miss Lamarsh in recent comment on the problem.

MANY GROUPS

Such a conference, it is learned, would include representatives of the CMA, Cancer Society, the tobacco industry and growers, educators, and federal and provincial medical experts.

One of the first programs to develop from the conference, if is understood, would be a program to educate the nation's youth on the smoking health problem.

Another move considered by Ottawa is enforcement of the Tobacco Restraint Act. This act has been in existence since 1908 but has been rarely enforced.

It provides a fine of up to $100 for anyone furnishing smoking material to children under 16; it provides a fine of up to $4 for children caught smoking; and it provides maximum fine of $25 for anyone in charge of a cigarette vending machine who permits children under 16 to use it. If vending machine operators continue to permit use by children the machines can be ordered removed.

GLASSCO REPORT SUMMARY SAYS BASIC ORGANIZATION GOOD

'Delegate Authority for Streamlined Government'

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Greater delegation of authority is the key to more efficient operation of the gigantic federal government apparatus, the Glassco royal commission stressed in its fifth and final report today.

In a 3,600-word summary of its study into government organization, the three-man commission said the federal machine is a good one that needs only oiling to free its creaking joints of clogging red tape and give its operating segments a greater degree of freedom.

The report, tabled in the Commons, outlines the commissioners' general philosophy of good government operation set against the background of our previous reports. Unlike the previous ones, which ran a total of 800,000 words, its proposals are general, not specific, relating to the government as a whole, rather than to individual situations.

Got a notion there ain't so much anti-Negro sentiment in th' South as some o' th' anti-Negro sentiment stirrer-uppers make out.

Heavy emphasis is laid on present lines of authority, beginning with the cabinet ministers, of whom it says:

"As long ago as 1912 an outside expert, Sir George Murray, reported to the cabinet that 'the minister has too much to do and tries to do too much.' Fifty years later, this state of affairs is little changed, with the result that the public is often exasperated in dealing with public servants lacking power of decision even in commonplace situations."

From this premise, the report goes on to argue that cabinet ministers should delegate more authority to lower echelons of their departments to increase efficiency and give themselves more opportunity to deal with leadership, policy matters and long-term objectives.

As an example, it cites the transport department where spending has trebled in 10 years with the enormous growth of civil aviation and marine services. Pressing problems of transport policy matters made it imperative to free the minister and his deputy of ever-increasing involvement in operations.

At the same time, the commission sets out new management methods aimed at developing effective systems of internal review, of reports and of preparing accurate cost information. It says these will give the cabinet minister and his senior aides adequate control of operations.

"One further condition must be recognized," it goes on. "Where there is devolution of operating authority and responsibility there must be the means, and the willingness, to reward good performance and to penalize inadequacy.

"This will, of course, require safeguards against arbitrari-

Hotel Brawl Preceded Fatal Knifing

NANAIMO (CP)—A brawl preceded the fatal stabbing of Robert L. McDermott, 30, in a Ucluelet hotel early on the morning of March 19, an Assize Court jury was told Tuesday.

The jury is trying Hiroshi Hama of Ucluelet on a charge of non-capital murder in the case.

RCMP Corporal G. Wigerink of Tofino told the court when he arrived at the hotel he found another man holding Hama, who was trying to escape. He said Hama had blood on his face and clothing and the walls of the hotel corridor were splattered with blood.

McDermott lay in a corner. He was still breathing but failed to reply when spoken to. He was dead on arrival at hospital.

HUNTING KNIFE

Dr. H. R. McDairmid of Tofino testified McDermott had been stabbed four times. Three of the wounds were superficial but a fourth, below the collarbone had severed a major artery and punctured a lung.

The case is continuing.

Seven Die In Fire

SEATTLE (AP)—A father and his six children died today in a fire which swept through their two-storey frame home on Vashon Island, southwest of here in Puget Sound. The mother was burned critically. The dead were Cecil Landers, about 40, and three sons and three daughters.

CNR Asks Ideas

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Canadian National official said today the government railway has invited union suggestions on a plan to eliminate four Prairie turn-around points for train crews.

Kennedy made two points on the legislation he will lay before Congress:

He wants a law giving Negroes the right to be served in public facilities, like hotels and restaurants. This seems to mean a law forbidding proprietors of such facilities, if they are involved in interstate commerce at all, to decide on their own to refuse to serve Negroes.

He wants a law from Congress to authorize the federal federal government to step in more fully in lawsuits to end segregation in public education. As of now, a Negro denied admittance to a segregated school in almost all areas must file his own suit. Few Negroes can afford such expense.

Some Negro leaders feel, however, that unless Congress passes a law permitting the government to file a suit in any case where a Negro's civil rights are denied—not just in selected fields—all other measures are insufficient.

REDS HOPE TO LAUNCH SPACEWOMAN ANY DAY

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union plans to launch a woman into space, possibly this week, Communist sources said today.

Communist correspondents say the world's first prospective spacewoman has been selected. She is said to be fairly good looking, in her early 20s, single, and in exceptional physical condition.

According to one unconfirmed report, she is a close friend of Andrian Nikolayev, who orbited the earth 64 times last summer.

Port Mayor Won't Seek Re-Election

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Loran Jordon, a member of the Port Alberni council for 21 years, has announced he will not seek re-election in December.

Asked by an alderman if his decision to retire was caused by the defeat of the recent arena improvement bylaw, the mayor replied "Not altogether".

The council had sought to pass a bylaw to cover a deficit in construction of the arena-curling rink and to complete the project.

But the bylaw was defeated and the council had to cover the over-expenditure of more than $131,000 by raising the mill rate.

Two-Seaters Next

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. space chief James E. Webb announced today that there will be no additional manned Project Mercury orbital flights. Instead, Webb said, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will move ahead with the program for the two-man Gemini spacecraft.

CONVICTS WOULD CALL PRISON COMMISSIONER

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Three convicts facing three charges in an April 19 prison riot have asked to have Canada's commissioner of penitentiaries take the stand as a defence witness.

The three, Nelson Bernard Wood, 27; Gerard Caissey, 28, and Wayne Carlson, 21, are charged with attempting to break out of the B.C. Penitentiary, unlawfully confining prison guard Pat Dennis and assaulting the guard.

Water Tunnel to Resume

Up to 2½ miles of tunnelling will be put to tender call by Greater Victoria Water Board in August in a major resumption of the Japan Gulch project.

Water commissioner Ronald Upward, Tuesday, told the board that there is about $1,500,000 on hand and the board has reached the position where it could pay for the $5,000,000 project by 1970 without borrowing.

CUT 20 MILES

Altogether, the board plans to punch a 26,000-foot tunnel through Japan Gulch to expand its main supply line capacity from Sooke Lake to the Goldstream reservoir and cut some 20 miles from the present 25-mile-long pipeline route.

Two years ago it hired a hard-rock mining crew to do 3,000 feet of the tunnel, partially to start the project and partially to determine the type of rock it may encounter.

At the same time, the board raised its wholesale price from 10 to 12 cents per 1,000 gallons. The price increase and logging operation profits will pay for the project.

Mr. Upward said there should be no need to raise the wholesale rate for another 10 to 15 years.

The tender call for excavation of up to 15,000 feet will provide for actual removal of about 5,000 feet of rock a year. Quotes also will be sought for completion of the entire 26,000 feet for the sake of cost comparison.

'MOLE' DIGGER

Mr. Upward said the size of the tender call might make it feasible for an American company with a huge "mole" tunnel digger to enter a bid in competition with the bids involving standard funnelling techniques.

He added that the board's "pay-as-you-go" policy would enable it to build major pipelines in the next decade—notably to Central Saanich—to distribute the water to an expanding urban area without heavy financial strains.

New Guiana Strike Riot

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP) — Crowds stormed public buildings, entered government offices and massed at the entrances to the government compound today in a new demonstration in British Guiana's two-month-old strike.

Police riot squads used tear gas to disperse the demonstrators and many arrests were reported. Other passive resisters to the Jagan government squatted at the entrances to banks and post offices.
